The curtailment of operations during this period due to weather resulted in fewer men completing their missions. As a result only 23 officers and 32 enlisted men completed their operational tours in August. However with the rapid advance of our troops in enemy occupied territory, the number of men who escaped and evaded increased noticeably. The total casualty figures to 31 August are as follows:

Missing in action	220
Killed in action	20
Prisoners of War	119
Interned	18
Escaped or Evaded	19

OPERATIONAL NARRATIVE

Mission #88

For the third successive day Munich was the target of United States heavy bombers. Seven hundred planes were dispatched to this city while over three hundred were sent to Saarbrücken. The Allach aero engine works was the visual primary target and the center of Munich the PFF target.

Losses and battle damage on yesterday's mission limited the 457th Group's force to one eighteen-plane box on this mission. Major Peresich - Lt. Erbe, leading the Group, took off at 0506 into an overcast that extended from two thousand feet to twelve thousand feet. The assembly altitude had to be raised to 14,000 feet. One plane failed to find the Group formation. It joined the 306th Group and went to Munich with it. The rest of the planes assembled into the high box position in the 94th Combat Wing.

The English coast at Felixstowe was crossed at 0710. No change had been made in the penetration route from that of the previous two missions to Munich. It probably was not thought necessary to add deception to the penetration. German fighter strength had not offered battle before and the presence of six hundred American fighters did not augur for a profitable interception. At the moment the 457th Group was crossing the Rhine River between Karlsruhe and Mannheim messages were sent by the German police system to Stuttgart, Nuremberg and Salzburg to send all available firefighting apparatus to Munich.

The formation overshot the briefed I.P. and did not turn down toward Munich until it was almost due north of the city. PFF bombing was announced and as the Wing came down the run the 457th high box was in its proper place in the left side of the Wing leader. However the leader had brought the formation in to the west of the center of Munich and made a sharp left turn to correct this. This threw the high box over to the right of the lead and bombs were dropped in this position at 0935 from 25,600 feet. They fell in a less built up area two miles southeast of the center of the city and on the east side of the Isar River.

After bombing the lead box turned left instead of right as briefed. The high box turned right and became separated from the lead and low. An attempt was made to join the other two boxes after they came around Munich but the 457th Group was too far ahead. It then joined the 40th Combat Wing and returned to England without difficulty. No fighters were observed.

The flak over Munich had been much less accurate than yesterday. Only eight planes received damage, all minor. Out of 1043 dispatched bombers, sixteen failed to return.

Mission #89

MUNICH

Munich having received a two-day respite, probably because of bad weather, was the objective for the fourth time in six days of the striking power of American heavy bombers. The field order was the same as before. Bomb Allach if weather permits. Bomb Munich if clouds obscure the ground.

The 457th Group sent 36 planes aloft to make up the lead and low boxes of the 94th "A" Combat Wing with Major Mosier - Lt. Selwyn leading in a PFF plane. Take off began at 0514 and after a normal assembly the formation, sixth in the Division line, proceeded across the North Sea to the Scheldt Islands. Again no variation or deception had been put in the penetration route. It was exactly the same as the last three missions. The flight south over Belgium and thence southeast over northern France, Luxembourg, and Germany to a point fifty miles from the I.P. was uneventful. The cloud cover which had been about 5/10 over Belgium increased to 10/10 near Stuttgart and rose abruptly from 14,000 to 22,000 feet. Dense persistent contrails interfered with the formation flying. The Division formation became disrupted. A turn northeast was made to hold it. The I.P. was passed far to the South - still the course was held, although Munich was fifty miles to the South. Finally when a turn was made for a run on the city, Regensburg lay directly beneath under the thick clouds which now had risen to 26,000 feet. The run would be from the northeast instead of the northwest. It started at 0945. Five minutes later the Mickey Operator picked up the target on the hundred mile range while Munich was still fifty miles away. He checked it with a fix from Nurnburg to make sure it was the target. He took over the formation and began to kill his course. Drift was killed twenty-five miles from Munich. As blind synchronization was used, Lt. Tonelli, visual Bombardier, checked the rate at ten, eight, and six mile horizontal ranges from the city. The 500 lb. bombs were released at 1006 from 27,000 feet. The Mickey Operator followed then the rest of the bomb run with the bomb release circle and it was practically the same as Lt. Tonelli's. It was therefore certain that the bombs landed in the center of the city. At this height the flak was very inaccurate. Much of it was a thousand or more feet below.

After bombing the Wing formation proceeded in the return route by itself. Briefed course was maintained and the very excellent escort of fighters contacted no enemy fighters. The planes returned to base at 1430 without loss. Four times in six days Southern Germany had borne the weight of one thousand American heavy bombers. Could it be that these attacks on the birthplace of the Nazi Movement was the prelude to a rebellion in the German Army against the Party?

PEENEMUNDE

18 July 1944

Intelligence reports indicated the Me-163 rocket fighter had become operational. Four airfields in northern Germany had been equipped to service these planes. Peenemunde, the experimental station and birthplace of this plane, was now engaged in large scale production of concentrated hydrogen peroxide, the fuel used by this plane. They were a threat to heavy bomber formations and the fuel plant needed neutralization.

[REDACTED]

The 457th Group supplied two eighteen plane high boxes to the 94th "A" and "B" Combat Wings leading a force of 450 B-17s to this target. Major Beere-Lt. Erbe led the "A" box which was to bomb one of the electro-static hydrogen peroxide plants while Capt. Belcher led the "B" box which was to attack the power plant supplying electricity to the former.

Take off began at 0452 and after assembly into their respective Wing formations the two formations left Louth on the long haul across the North Sea to the Danish Peninsula. The 10/10 undercast over the Sea decreased to 5 - 7/10 as Kiel was passed on the right. Continuing eastward over the Baltic Sea the cloud coverage was on the border between visual and PFF bombing. The Wing leaders were uncertain which should be used. As the turn was made at the I.P. for the bomb run the leader of the "A" Wing gave instructions to Major Beere to assume a visual position in the formation and drop on his smoke markers if the target was obscured. However, as the target was approached the cloud cover was negligible and Lt. Anten dropped his bombs on and around the peroxide plant.

The Wing leader of the "B" Wing announced visual bombing would be attempted while the formation was still 10 minutes from the I.P. Seven minutes later he changed this to PFF bombing. On the bomb run it became evident that visual conditions existed and the Wing leader changed back to visual bombing. The 457th high box tried to take interval but insufficient opportunity remained. Just before the bomb release line there was considerable interference from prop wash of the lead box. Lt. Braun released his bombs at 1002 from 26,000 feet. They missed the power plant falling to the east of it. The pattern was rather widespread.

There was very little flak and it was inaccurate. Only one plane received damage - minor.

The return route brought the formation over Anklam, FW-190 assembly plant, where numerous pictures were taken for use on any future mission to this target. Thence the flight was back across Schleswig Holstein, the North Sea, where a let down was made, and to Glatton. This was without incident and landing was finished at 1423.

Mission #91

19 July 1944

German jet propelled aircraft had definitely become a potential menace to American heavy bomber formations. Augsburg was the center of development for the Me-262 jet fighter with much activity in evidence at nearby Lechfeld, Leipheim, Laupheim and other fields. Coordinated with widespread attacks on such targets were policing raids on the Schweinfurt ball bearing plants and the parent Me. plant at Augsburg. The 457th Group drew the latter as its target, furnishing thirty-six planes to form the entire 94th "B" Combat Wing as part of a force of 1242 Eighth Air Force heavies dispatched to southern Germany.

~~SECRET~~

A new departure was made in the composition of boxes for deep penetration missions such as this one. For the first time the "tactical" twelve ship box was used on this type of mission. Col. Wilson - Capt. Schuchman led the three twelve ship boxes in the take off at 0454 with Captain Godfrey in the Deputy Lead plane. The Wing assembly was made without difficulty and Felixstowe left behind at 0714 with the Wing flying eighth in the Division formation.

The Continent was pierced at the same flak free entrance over the Scheldt Islands but from that point there was a variance from the route used on the last four penetrations to the Munich Area. The flight took the formation by Aachen and thence across the Rhine through the Karlsruhe-Strasbourg flak gap. The entire route was covered with 6 - 8/10 cumulous clouds but they broke to 3/10 near the I.P.

Near Kempton, just before the turn up to the I.P., the formation was attacked by approximately forty FW-190s and Me-109s from all directions, but no saturation tactics were used. The pilots did not press their attacks and seemed inexperienced in interception of heavy bomber formations. Only a few came in close before peeling off. However, the deputy wing lead plane was hit and fell out of formation. It was not seen again. Although these attacks continued all the way to Augsburg no other losses were incurred.

The boxes had taken visual bombing interval at the I.P. Lt. Tonelli in the lead box and Lt. Rosen in the low box after making a smooth run released their bombs at 1003 from 25,000 feet. Both hit in the hangar area on the east side of the field which was the area assigned to them. The high box coming in last had difficulty in its lead plane. The bomb bay doors would not open electrically and they could not be cranked down in time to bomb. When the waist gunner in this plane saw bombs fall from a plane in the formation he called "bombs away". The Navigator thinking this came from the Bombardier gave the signal. The formation dropped its bombs with the indices in the bombsight still an inch apart. They fell in open fields and woods four miles south of the target.

The three boxes rallied into a Wing formation and proceeded on the return flight home. They split up again after effecting a let down over the North Sea and reached base at 1330.

Good weather enabled all of the 29 Combat Wings dispatched to bomb their targets visually. Destruction was extensive and one of the more successful missions of the war accomplished.

Mission #92

LEIPZIG

20 July 1944

The prospect of generally good visual bombing weather caused the dispatching of almost 1300 heavies on widespread policing raids of synthetic oil plants, aircraft and other factories in central Germany. The target assigned to the 457th Group was a small but relatively important ball bearing factory situated in the western part of Leipzig. It specialized in bearings for aircraft.

[REDACTED]

The twelve-plane box inaugurated on the Augsburg mission for deep penetration was used again today. The Group furnished the lead and low boxes for the 94th "B" Combat Wing flying seventh in the Division formation. The twenty-four planes took off at 0641 with Col. Hoffman - Lt. Stafford leading in a PFF plane.

The initial half of the route over enemy territory was the same as on yesterday's flight to Augsburg. The departure from it was made just before passing Frankfurt. This deception coupled with the fact that a large force of heavy bombers from Italy were enroute to the Munich area confused the enemy's fighter controllers. The Group encountered none and only small attacks were made on the entire force. As the course was flown the clouds decreased from 10/10 over England to 3 - 5/10 in the target area. However ground haze was dense.

Just before reaching the I.P. which was about 25 miles east of Leipzig the scouting force of P-51s advised the Wing to change its heading to 340° because of smoke. Col. Hoffman, however, decided to bomb by PFF and overshot the briefed I.P. to make a run from a more northerly direction. Visual bombing conditions which had existed for the first Wings into the vicinity were suddenly changed by a large cloud bank which moved into the area during the bombing. This was the situation as the 457th Group approached Leipzig on the bomb run. The "center of the industrial area" was the assigned target under such conditions. The 500 lb. bombs of the lead box and incendiaries of the low box were released by PFF means at 1133 at 25,000 feet. A small gap in the clouds at the time of impact permitted location of the bursts on the strike photos. They hit four miles southeast of the center of Leipzig with the main weight in open fields. Only moderate fire was experienced by the Group from more than a hundred guns in the area. Thirteen planes were damaged - all minor.

After bombing some difficulty, caused by the loss of an engine in the lead plane, was experienced before a rally with the Division was effected. No fighters were met on the return route. When the North Sea was reached the Wing broke up into individual boxes and the planes of the 457th Group came over the field at 1400 for peel off and landing.

Eleven hundred seventy eight B-17s and B-24s had dropped 2,955.8 tons of bombs in central Germany for a loss of only nineteen planes.

21 July 1944

Several targets in southern Germany that had been less successfully bombed on July 19th were designated for attacks today. Schweinfurt, Ebelstsch and Kempton were among them to which were added Regensburg, Allach and Schwabisch-Hall, in an operation which was an almost exact repetition of the raids on the 19th. This time the 457th Group drew the ball bearings works at Schweinfurt. Repairs had been made to the buildings and production was at a level higher than desired by the Eighth Air Force.

SECRET

Two twelve-ship high boxes were furnished to the 94th "A" and "B" Combat Wings with Major Peresich - Lt. Erbe leading the "A" Box and Capt. Schuchmann - Lt. Doherty leading the "B" Box. The two boxes, loaded with five one-thousand pound HE bombs and with thirty-eight one-hundred pound incendiaries respectively, began taking off at 0615 into the grey overcast of low solid stratus clouds. After completing assembly into their respective wings and taking the second and third position in the Division formation, the planes headed out across the North Sea to the Scheldt Islands. The route of the Munich forces was followed until after the Mannheim-Karlsruhe flak gap was passed when a turn was made northeast to the I.P., Neustadt. Prefrontal clouds near Saarbrucken rising up to 25,000 feet forced the two formations to climb to 27,000 feet. Schweinfurt however was free of clouds and the "A" Wing upon reaching the I.P. let down to 25,000 feet, the bombing altitude. At this point the AFCE in Major Peresich's plane went out and the Deputy Lead took over. Lt. Kolstoe, Bombardier in this plane, was unable to use the G-1 automatic pilot so a manual run was flown. He had considerable difficulty in picking up his aiming point, a building in the V.K.F. #2 Works. The bombs were released at 1054 and fell about 1300 feet to the west in a built up part of the city.

When the "B" Wing climbed to 27,000 feet to avoid the prefrontal clouds, it overshot the I.P. and began its run on a heading twenty degrees more to the east. This together with the ground haze and smoke confused F/O Scott, the Bombardier, and he could not pick up his target immediately. The overshooting of the I.P. had brought the formation on its bomb run directly across the 16 flak guns defending the ball bearing factory at Ebelsbach. The fire from these guns and those of the 120 guns at Schweinfurt that were within range was accurate. Lt. Gerber, #1 in the high squadron, was hit, lost his #3 engine and salvaged his bombs. Four other planes thinking it was "bombs away" dropped. The target was still several miles away. Lt. Gerber fell out of formation and was not seen again. The "B" Box passed over Schweinfurt without locating the target in time to bomb.

Upon taking up the return trip the small town of Beerfelden, fifty miles from Schweinfurt, was chosen as a target of opportunity for the bombs. Six planes released there.

As rally with the Wing was not made, the box joined another Wing and returned to base. The "A" Box effected rally and returned without difficulty. All planes landed by 1440.

Mission #94

ST 10 - PERISERS

24 July 1944

The United States First Army after overrunning the Cotentin Peninsula and storming Cherbourg had reformed itself on the South on the North side of the straight road running from St. Lo to Leesay. It was now poised for a break through out into the French countryside to the south and the Brest Peninsula.

1586 heavy bombers of the Eighth Air Force were called upon to assist in the grand drive. They were to saturate the area south of the road from St. Lo to Paris with bombs for a depth of one and one-fourth miles. In this all out effort the 457th Group was directed to supply three twelve plane boxes and eight aircraft for an additional high composite box to compose the entire 94th Combat Wing "B" Force.

The take off began at 0953 with Major Watson - Captain Dowler leading and considerable interference was encountered during the assembly when three separate B-24 Wings flew through the gathering formation.

Selsey Bill was left behind at 1211 on a direct route to the front lines. The four boxes reformed abreast for the run to their assigned areas at 17,000 foot altitude. These covered a rectangle 4-3/4 miles wide by 1-3/4 miles deep. Below the cloud cover was almost complete. The coast was crossed with the target area sixteen miles away and still the clouds persisted. As no landmarks were visible course could not be checked and corrected. Finally the formations came out into the clear about a mile north of the road, thirty seconds time for bombs away. All boxes were about a half mile to the right of their aiming points but could not turn left because of crowding and the abreast formation. As American troops were 1500 yards away from the road the four Bombardiers in the lead ships waited until they were sure their bombs would not fall short and they hit the toggle levers. All bombs were away except those in the low box. The lead ship's bombs hung up and the Bombardier, hearing the radio operator call "bombs away" did not attempt another release. The other three boxes reformed and made a 360 over the channel waiting for the high box to go back over the target area. On this second run the clouds had moved over the German positions and no release was made. At this moment the words "Wild Blue Yonder" came over the air from 1st Division. The entire operation was cancelled. Only 487 of the 1586 bombers had dropped their bombs.

All the planes then returned to base and those of the 457th Group began landing at 1500.

EVENTS and ANNOUNCEMENTS

A gala war bond show, "The Flying Yanks," was held on 3 August at the Aero Club. The performances were given at 1900 and 2100 hours.

Once again the group was made to feel the part it is playing in the destruction of the enemy. On 5 August the following letter of commendation, USSAFE, dated 27 July 1944, was published for the information of all personnel:

"1. The following message has been received from General Arnold: 'The continued all out efforts by your heavies day after day is most gratifying. It shows to all of us that your combat and maintenance crews are true teams. Please convey my appreciation to all concerned for their untiring efforts and my congratulations for the splendid results obtained.'

I desire to add my appreciation to that of the Commanding General, Army Air Forces. The results of your efforts speak for themselves."

/s/ CARL SPAATZ, Lt. General, USA,
Commanding.

Announcement was made on 6 August of the winners of $25.00 War Bonds at the War Bond Show "Flying Yanks" held 3 August at the Aero Club. The winners are: Cpl. Milton D. Goin, 748th Sq; Cpl. William McKeogh, 750th Sq; Sgt. E. R. Carrier, 748th Sq; T/Sgt. K. H. Kriss, 749th Sq; Pfc. Joseph Levatino, 748th Sq; Cpl. George P. Brown, 748th Sq; Cpl. Angelo Guccia, 750th Sq; T/Sgt. Kenneth Hixon, 749th Sq; Sgt. I. W. Harker, 748th Sq; Cpl. John E. Ford, 750th Sq; Sgt. Wayne E. Eddy, 749th Sq; Lt. J. A. Sobjek, AC, 749th Sq; Lt. Payson E. Tucker, AC, 749th Sq; Sgt. Michael W. Pasquarelli, 202nd Fin. Det; Lt. William G. Batchelor, Group Hq; Cpl. Price J. Hall, 751st Sq.

A class in "How to Get the Best Results With Your Camera" started Tuesday, 8 August 1944, at 1900 hours in the War Room. T/Sgt. William Mack from the Station Photo Lab was the instructor.

To stimulate the sale of War Bonds the personnel of this station have been broken up into five teams. Each squadron will constitute one team. The remaining units, i.e., 1212th GS, 1790th Ord. Co., 860th Chon. Co., and 202nd Fin. Det., will constitute team number 5. The team of the five to exceed its quota the most will be declared the winner of a grand prize to be announced in the near future.

An E.N.S.A. Show (British Talent) was held in the Aero Club at 2030 hours, 10 August.

[REDACTED]

The completion of our first 100 MISSIONS in one week over five months was possible only through the cooperation and coordination of all units on the Base. A strict sense of devotion to duty and a keen interest in doing an excellent job, earned everyone the right to relax and make merry on this occasion.

Two parties were held in celebration of the event, one by the enlisted personnel on 11 August and by the officers on 12 August. Our Station Band, "The Fireballs" played for both engagements. Free beer was served at the Aero Club for the enlisted men.

The officers' club featured appropriate decorations in the form of hanging pennants marked "100" and a colorfully decorated bar. The dining hall was lit by candle light and added romantically to the glow incurred already by a goodly supply of Scotch and Gin.

A demonstration of a variety of German weapons and a display of German uniforms of all branches of service was given 12 August in the Main Briefing Room, Administrative Site, for the ground echelon. The highlight of the demonstration was the manual of arms conducted by a German speaking sergeant of the mobile unit. The audience enjoyed the stream of German profanity that flowed from his glib tongue and readily sympathized with the private that drew "K.P." as a result of his gaucherie.

The G.I. Show "Petticoats" was shown 14 August at 1900 and 2100 hours at the Aero Club. It was a musical variety-comedy in conjunction with 8th Air Force "Victory Squadron" War Bond Drive.

On 15 August it was announced that the 1212th QM Company was the first unit on this station to over-subscribe its quota in the Victory Squadron War Bond Drive. Although officially reported "over the top" by 10%, they were still going strong at this writing.

A dance was held 16 August at the NCO Club at 2000 hours. Girls were aplenty and refreshments were served. Music was furnished by the "Fireballs."

Next organization to become a member of the Victory Squadron Super-Boosters' Club was Team No. 2 in the person of the fighting 749th Bomb Squadron. On 17 August they reported that they had reached their quota of $17,220.00.

By 19 August Teams 1, 2, 4 and 5 had all made their quota and became members of the Super-Boosters' Club. To further boost the sale of bonds, a dance was held at the Aero Club on the above date, and the "20th Century Bombers" provided the music. Officers and enlisted men attended the dance and several attractive prizes were auctioned off to buyers of bonds.

~~SECRET~~

The winner of a flight to Scotland on a 3-day pass was Lt. Herbert S. Shapiro, who purchased a $500.00 War Bond. 1/Sgt Dave Singer, another $500.00 bond purchaser, was the happy winner of a quart of whiskey. Lt. Shapiro and Sgt. Singer are both in the 751st Bomb Squadron.

On 21 August the following commendation, Hq USSTAF, dtd 14 August 1944, was published here for the information of all personnel:

"1. The highly successful sustained period of very intensive operations accomplished by the Eighth Air Force since the end of July has been most gratifying. This period has seen attacks on targets, strategic and tactical, from the enemy coast to the Baltic and deepest Germany, and on operations ranging out to base at friendly airdromes in Russia and Italy.

2. Your losses have been minimized by the terrific pressure that your Air Force has maintained through its unceasing bold attacks on the enemy's war machine; this dividend itself is a glowing commendation on your efficiency and offensive spirit.

3. I wish to extend my most hearty congratulations to all personnel responsible for the operational planning, the maintenance of the equipment and to the crews participating in this grand and lucrative series of attacks. Their outstanding achievements reflect greatest credit upon the Air Forces as a whole and upon your command and its component echelons in particular.

Two films, "The Battle of China" and "Soldier Voting", were shown at this station on 22, 23 and 24 August as part of the Army Talks Program.

A classical concert was presented by the Hirsch String Quartet on 27 August at 2000 hours at the Aero Club.

Billy Conn, No. 1 Contender for the World's Heavyweight championship, appeared at this station on 28 August in a boxing show staged to boost the Eighth Air Force War Bond Drive. In addition to the main feature which consisted of four bouts of high class boxers, there were four bouts of our own local talent. Results of the matches were as follows:

Cpl. Ed A. Pelletier (748th Bomb Sq. North Carolina) 160 lbs., took the decision from Pfc. Hugh Smith (748th Bomb Sq. from San Antonio, Texas) 160 lbs.

Pvt. Mort Wolinski (831st Engrs. from Chester, Pa.) 161 lbs., TKO'd Pvt. H. E. Ace Thorne (750th Bomb Sq. Hatick, Mass.) 172 lbs.

Cpl. Tony Corrales (860th Chev. from Los Angeles, Calif.) 175 lbs., took the decision from Sgt. Bob Tallett (88th Sta Comp., from Scranton, Pa.) 175 lbs.

[REDACTED]

S/Sgt. H. A. Prather (748th Bomb Sq. from Colorado Springs, Colo.) 135 lbs., took the decision from Pvt. Arthur Pappas (460th Sub-Depot, from Far Rockaway, Queens, N.Y.) 128 lbs.

Major Robert R. Love refereed and the two judges were Captains Harry E. Burton and Richard G. Taylor.

A Stag Party was held at the Senior HCO Club on 29 August at 1600 hours. Free beer was served.

RECREATION AND WELFARE

1. Special Services

Following is report of Special Service activities for the month of August 1944:

In the way of musicals this month Special Services sponsored the Flying Circus on 3 August, an ENCA show composed of British civilian talent on 10 August, and Petticoats, which was a condensed version of "Skirts" on 14 August. The Hirsch String Quartet, a concert of classical music appeared on the 24th of August.

In the world of twinkling toes on the dance floor there were a number of opportunities for those so inclined, the most outstanding and most remembered of which were the 100 mission E.M. dance held at the Aero Club on 11 August, which for the added feature had free beer for all, and the 100 mission dance for Officers on 12 August at the Officers Club. A good time was had by all on both occasions. Other dances for the E.M. were on the 4th, the 18th, and the 25th of August. On the 19th of August we were treated by the well known 8th Air Force Band, the 20th Century Bombers. The senior NCO club enjoyed its own dance 16 August.

The baseball fans may be delighted to know that although we lost in the series we achieved a moral victory by defeating Molesworth, the division champions, to the tune of 1 to 0.

Army Talks have furthered their achievements with their very interesting discussions on the most talked about subjects of the day, which included, "G.I. Bill of Rights", "Why We Fight", "Anglo-American Relations", "Soldier Voting", and other valuable and educational topics. This was heralded with the War Department Informational Film, "Battle of China", and a short on "Soldier Voting". Attendance was 100% and commendations ran highly.

All this did not detract from the recreational facilities at the Aero Club. Participation there was in ping-pong, pool, chess, checkers, library, recordings and refreshments. Of course, the greatest attraction was the personal appearance of Billy Conn. And in the spotlight several days later was Bing Crosby. Although he visited Alconbury, we managed to be represented via special convoy for those ready, willing and able.

The 8th Air Force Victory Squadron War Bond Drive at this station was over subscribed by the end of August, even though the Drive was not to close until 2 September. Several shows, "Petticoats", "Flying Circus", the Billy Conn boxing exhibition and the dance for which the 20th Century Bombers played were all presented in conjunction with the "Victory Squadron" Campaign.

[REDACTED]

2. American Red Cross

The case work for the month was made up of the routine cases dealing for the most part with health and welfare reports due to the fact that the men have not been receiving their mail or that their families have not been receiving the men's mail as quickly as they should. There was one recommendation made for one man to be returned to the interior through an investigation of conditions at home.

There were no loans made during this month at this station but the collections on over due loans were very poor due to the fact that the boys had to buy War Bonds.

The Aero Club is functioning far beyond what it has in the past for besides our regular Staff Assistant we were fortunate to have one here temporarily who assisted very much. There were two big items in this month's program which must be mentioned; one was the huge success "The 100th Mission Party" to which Gen. Lacey came and spoke to the men. The other was the opening of our GYM. From the time that the movies were taken from the game room to the new theater the gym was planned, the materials were ordered, and when they finally arrived with the help of the Special Service and various boys working on their spare time, the GYM was completed and opened. During the month there were 30 entertainment functions held in the club, and there were also 32,283 snacks served over our snack bar exclusive of coffee, tea, and colas.

STORIES OF THE MONTH

This B-17 Flying Fortress Group, commanded by Colonel James R. Luper, recently passed the century mark in the number of daylight, precision-bombing assaults successfully carried out against vital military and industrial installations throughout the length and breadth of Nazi-dominated Europe.

The achievements of the Group, the first Flying Fortress unit to be made up entirely of all-silver bombers, have brought forth commendations from both Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle, Commanding General, Eighth Air Force, and Major General Robert B. Williams, Commanding General, 1st Bombardment Division.

During the five score missions, the Group's huge formation of four-engined bombers was frequently led by Colonel Luper, flying as air commander of a combat wing. On several of the Eighth's deepest penetrations of the Reich, he led the entire division, and on one occasion - a highly successful assault on the aircraft manufacturing center at Ludwigshafen, he flew in the Fortress that led the mighty armada of the Eighth Air Force. Among the missions which Colonel Luper flew as combat wing commander was the recent successful pounding of the ball and roller bearing factories at Schweinfurt; the attack on the aircraft and industrial plants at Brunswick, and the assault on the aero engine works and the synthetic oil refineries at Leipzig.

On 'D-day', the group, again led by the commanding officer, was part of the gigantic formation of heavies that the Eighth Air Force sent out to blast enemy defense positions along the coast of France, to pave the way for the invasion of Western Europe.

Preparations for this important mission were carried out with the utmost secrecy and no hint of the momentous undertaking had reached the crewmen. Nevertheless, they knew that something out of the ordinary was afoot. There were many indications that the long awaited day was at hand - additional guards had been posted - ground crews were working feverishly to service their ships - men leaving the base on pass were turned back at the gate. And when they were summoned to the briefing they crowded into the room and gathered in little knots, tense with excitement, to speculate about the mission. Then Colonel Luper walked to the front of the main briefing room and stood before a huge map of Europe. At once the room became silent.

"Gentlemen," he began calmly, "this is it!"

Then he continued in unhurried voice, explaining the importance of the job at hand and reminding the men that the ground troops were depending on them for support.

"This is what we have all been waiting for," he said. "I need not tell you how much depends on today's operations. Every resource in our possession must be put to use to make this mission successful. It must be successful!"

The various operational officers then took over and started briefing. Intelligence, Operations, Signals, Weather - one officer after another for more than thirty minutes. It was an unusually long and detailed briefing. Nothing was omitted; nothing was left to chance.

The mighty engines of the Fortresses roared a deep crescendo then raced down the runway, one after another, to take to the air. Under the direction of Colonel Luper the bombers assembled in formation and then turned and headed in the direction of France. The air support provided that day by the Eighth Air Force received high praise from all commanders of the Allied forces.

Colonel Luper has a background of military experience that makes him eminently qualified to carry out the responsibilities of a heavy bombardment group commander.

A graduate of the Hill Military Academy, Portland, Ore., where he took an active part in the sports program, playing both football and baseball, he enlisted in the Infantry in May, 1933. While serving as an enlisted man, he studied in his spare time and won a competitive examination and an appointment to The U. S. Military Academy at West Point, where he was graduated in the Class of 1938.

Selecting the Air Corps as his branch of service, he spent the next two years mastering every type of aircraft used by the Air Forces. After completing this training, he was appointed Commandant of Aviation Cadets at Gunter Field, Ala. In 1941, he was assigned to head the Officers Candidate School and the Officers Training School, Miami Beach, Fla. He formulated the policies and training program that made this one of the best training centers for embryo officers in the entire country. He also served as Director of Training at the Gunnery School, Tyndall, Fla., and the Central Instructor's School, Fort Myers, Fla. After organizing the Luper Provisional Group at Pyote, Texas, and serving as a deputy Wing commander at Ardmore, Okla., he was named commanding officer of his present Fortress Group and came overseas early this year to take his group into combat.

During his combat career, Colonel Luper has been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart and the Air Medal with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

The citation accompanying the Distinguished Flying Cross read in part: "For extraordinary achievement while serving as Air Commander of a combat bombardment wing on 4 June 1944. Despite the presence of extremely thick overcast, Colonel Luper assembled his wing. Although a new type of formation was being used for the first time in this theatre, he skillfully assembled his units in their proper position in the formation. Throughout the entire flight to the target, Colonel Laper, maintained the integrity of the formation thus minimizing the vulnerability to attacks from the enemy. A perfect bomb run was made by each of the units in his formation and superior bombing results were achieved. The outstanding success achieved on this mission is directly attributable to the high degree of leadership exhibited by Colonel Laper on this occasion."

Colonel Laper is the son of Mrs. Harry M. Boury, 1740 S.W. Hawthorne Terrace, Portland, Oregon, and his wife, Mrs. Rene Miller Laper, resides at 701 N. 39th St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Major Raymond A. Syptak, son of Mrs. Paul V. Syptak, of 408 N. Washington St., Bryan, Texas, has been decorated with the Silver Star, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Major Syptak received his high decoration for his part in bringing his badly crippled bomber and crew back to England safely. The citation which accompanied his decoration read in part: "For gallantry in action against the enemy while leading a group of B-17 Flying Fortresses on a bombardment mission over enemy occupied territory. Just prior to reaching the target, enemy fighters made a savage attack on his aircraft, knocking out one engine, damaging a second engine and completely destroying a large number of instruments. Expertly utilizing the power of the remaining engines, Major Syptak determined to complete the mission, maneuvered back into the lead position and continued on the bombing run. Over the target area, a direct flak hit destroyed the rudder control cables, punctured the oxygen supply tanks and started a raging fire inside the plane. Major Syptak ordered the crew to bail out. Unable to open the escape hatch in the nose compartment, Major Syptak weak from lack of oxygen, struggled back to the cockpit and brought the stricken plane under control, while the engineer succeeded in extinguishing the flames. When the engineer's clothes caught fire, Major Syptak put out the flames with his bare hands. During the return journey a second engine went out entirely, but despite this added handicap, he piloted the aircraft back to England and made a safe landing. The gallantry, indomitable fighting spirit and superior flying skill displayed by Major Syptak undoubtedly saved the lives of the crewmen trapped in the burning aircraft."

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces, in 1941, Major Syptak was a student at Texas A. & M.

The Distinguished Flying Cross was recently awarded to Captain Edward B. Dosier, for his superb actions while serving as the pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress on two separate bomber combat missions over Nazi Europe.

On one of his first missions over Germany, sometime ago, he skillfully piloted his aircraft to the highly important enemy objective. Immediately following bombs away, Dosier's Fortress was attacked by four Nazi planes. They riddled his ship, killing his radio operator and ruining the oxygen system and instruments. Forced to leave his formation, Captain Dosier employed violent evasive action, while his crew kept the enemy at bay with their machine gun fire. The enemy planes finally gave up the fight and Captain Dosier through his superior airmanship brought his ship safely back to England.

Sometime later Captain Dosier was leading his group against enemy industrial installations in Hamburg when he once again had the opportunity to prove his skill and daring. He was on the all important bomb run when his ship became the objective of a very intense anti-aircraft barrage. His Fort received two direct hits, which rendered two of his engines useless. Despite this damage Captain Dosier managed by his skill and daring to get his ship to the target and bomb it with excellent results. Forced to abandon his lead position, Captain Dosier expertly guided his flak riddled aircraft back to its home base.

The courage, skill and coolness displayed by Captain Dosier on each of these occasions reflect the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dosier, live at Hanatalia, Alabama, and his wife, Mrs. Elsa Dosier, has her home in Bessemer, Alabama.

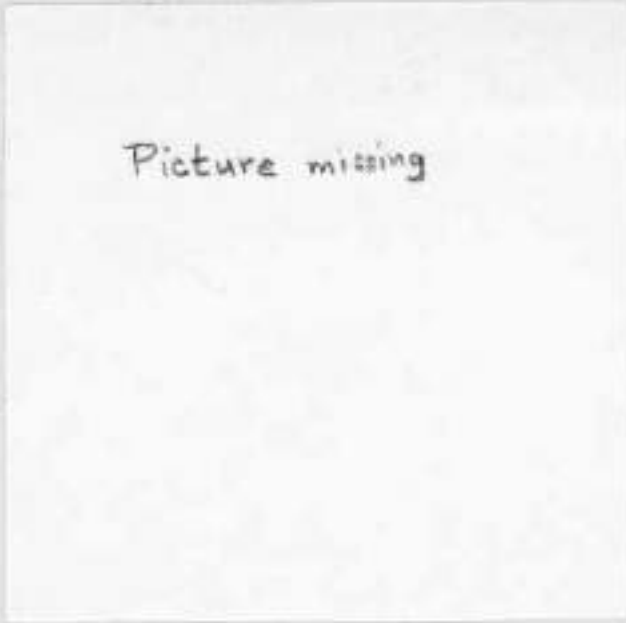

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces, in 1941, Captain Dosier was employed by the Alabama Power Co., Birmingham, Alabama, as a Trouble Shooter.

Captain Russell M. Selwyn, husband of Mrs. Dorothy L. Selwyn, of 1842 N. Cherokee Ave., Hollywood, Calif., has been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Captain Selwyn was decorated for his numerous acts of courage and superior airmanship, while leading his wing on combat bombardment missions over Nazi Europe. The citation which accompanied his decoration read in part: "For extraordinary achievement while serving as the pilot of the leading B-17 Flying Fortress of a combat bombardment wing on several missions over enemy occupied territory. Despite adverse weather conditions during assembly and enroute to the target area, Captain Selwyn skillfully piloted his airplane, accomplishing contact points on schedule and avoiding known flak areas. On several occasions when special equipment failed on the bombing run, he manually operated the aircraft with precision and bombs were released with outstanding results. On a number of operations fighter opposition and anti-aircraft fire were heavy, but Captain Selwyn expertly flew his aircraft over the target to bomb important objectives with a high degree of success. On one occasion heavy fighter attacks and concentrated barrages of flak seriously damaged his aircraft and wounded the air commander. Captain Selwyn exhibiting superior airmanship, continued in the lead position and returned the wing safely to England. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by Captain Selwyn on all these occasions reflect the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

His father, Mr. Edgar Selwyn, lives at 613 N. Canon Drive, Berkeley, California.

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces, in 1941, Captain Selwyn was employed by the Metro Goldwyn Mayer Studios, as a film editor.

First Lieutenant Eugene F. Tangherlini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tangherlini, of 68 Verchild St., Quincy, Mass., has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Lieutenant Tangherlini is an assistant engineering officer serving here with a B-17 Flying Fortress squadron.

One evening an aircraft returning from a combat mission landed without brakes and subsequently was out of control the instant it touched the runway. The pilot tried desperately to control the ship, but it was impossible. The aircraft left the runway and headed directly for a dispersal area where numerous bombers were parked. The pilot attempted to ground loop the ship without success. Still out of control, the damaged aircraft hit the wing of one bomber and crashed head on into another, instantly a terrific fire developed followed by numerous explosions. The entire crew miraculously escaped. In a matter of seconds, flames shot two and three hundred feet in the air. Two bombers parked in the same dispersal area were dangerously close to the fire. Lieutenant Tangherlini ran to the scene of the fire where he met his assistant Master Sergeant Mayers. The wing of the first ship to be hit, before the head on collision, was actually overlapping the fuselage of one of the burning ships. Lieutenant Tangherlini knew that the ship had to be moved without delay. He further realized that the gas tanks were partially filled, and that if a fire did develop, the ship would explode. Fifty calibre shells were exploding; projectiles and pieces of metal were flying through the air; flares were going off continually and the heat was terrific. Despite these difficulties and the danger involved, Lieutenant Tangherlini and his assistant entered the aircraft and cooperating perfectly, started the engines and moved the ship a safe distance from the fire. After this was accomplished, the two men returned to the scene of the fire and repeated this performance by moving another Fortress away from the flames. It was found later that the wing on the first ship to be taxied away had actually begun to melt. The courage and devotion to duty displayed by Lieutenant Tangherlini unquestionably saved two B-17 Flying Fortresses from absolute destruction, further reduced the fire hazard that might have otherwise destroyed valuable government property in the vicinity. The heroism displayed by Lieutenant Tangherlini on this occasion reflects the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States.

He was graduated from the Quincy High School, in 1938, and then attended Northeastern University.

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces, on 27 September 1942, Lieutenant Tangherlini was employed as a draftsman by the Pneumatic Scale Co., Quincy, Mass.

Master Sergeant Herbert B. Mayers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jules J. Mayers, of 700 W. 176 St., New York, N.Y., and husband of Mrs. Kathryn Mayers, of 806 S. Third St., Champaign, Ill., has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Sergeant Mayers is a flight chief with this B-17 Flying Fortress group.

One evening an aircraft returning from a combat mission landed without brakes and subsequently was out of control the instant it touched the runway. The pilot tried desperately to control the ship, but it was impossible. The aircraft left the runway and headed directly for a dispersal area where numerous bombers were parked. The pilot attempted to ground loop the ship without success. Still out of control, the damaged aircraft hit the wing of one bomber and crashed head on into another, instantly a terrific fire developed followed by numerous explosions. The entire crew miraculously escaped. In a matter of seconds, flames shot two and three hundred feet in the air. Two bombers parked in the same dispersal area were dangerously close to the fire. Sergeant Mayers ran to the scene of the fire where he met his officer First Lieutenant Tangherlini. The wing of the first ship to be hit, before the head on collision, was actually overlapping the fuselage of one of the burning ships. Sergeant Mayers knew that the ship had to be moved without delay. He further realized that the gas tanks were partially filled, and that if a fire did develop, the ship would explode. Fifty calibre shells were exploding; projectiles and pieces of metal were flying through the air; flares were going off continually and the heat was terrific. Despite these difficulties and the danger involved, Sergeant Mayers and his officer entered the aircraft and cooperating perfectly, started the engines and moved the ship a safe distance from the fire. After this was accomplished, the two men returned to the scene of the fire and repeated this performance by moving another Fortress away from the flames. It was found later that the wing of the first ship to be taxied away had actually begun to melt. The courage and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Mayers unquestionably saved two B-17 Flying Fortresses from absolute destruction, further reduced the fire hazard that might have otherwise destroyed valuable government property in the vicinity. The heroism displayed by Sergeant Mayers on this occasion reflects the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States.

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces, in 1940, Sergeant Mayers was employed as a mechanic, by an auto repair works in New York.

2. OFFICIAL: Letter, Hq 1st Bomb Division, "Larceny of Property of Missing Combat Crew Members", dtd 1 August 1944, is quoted in part for the information of all personnel -

* * * The unauthorized taking of personal property of combat crew members reported missing in action is larceny and will be punished as such. This offense is a most serious one and will not be condoned. A man who has sacrificed his liberty or life should at least have the consolation of knowing that his personal belongings will be safeguarded and returned to those who are entitled to receive them. * * *

The following recent case relating to larceny of property of missing combat crew members has been cited within this Division:

Sergeant * was tried and convicted by general court-martial for taking 20 pounds, 1 Admiral radio and 1 cadet blouse, the property of Staff Sergeant *, whom the accused believed to be missing in action. The accused has completed fifteen missions over enemy territory as a gunner and has a confirmed claim of one enemy fighter. Notwithstanding, the court imposed a sentence of dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances due or to become due and confinement to hard labor for one year.

"Violations of existing directives with reference to theater policy against acceptance of credit and incurring of indebtedness by officer and enlisted personnel in this theater have come to the attention of this headquarters. Attention is directed to the provisions of Paragraph 3, Section 2, Circular 73, Hq ETOUSA, 10 Sept 43, 'The request for, or acceptance of, commercial favors by organizations or members of these forces and also credit purchases as well as all other credit transactions by members of these forces, are forbidden; except, such credit as may be extended for brief periods of time in the customary transaction of business as essentially incidental to its orderly conduct (e.g. telephone valet and room service charges, etc., upon account to be paid promptly when presented)'. 2. OFFICIAL: Section X, Cir 32, Hq ETOUSA, dtd 20 Mar 44, is quoted for the information and compliance of all personnel:

"X- CONDUCT OF MILITARY PERSONNEL AT BOMBED SITES. 1. Individuals and small bodies of military personnel may occasionally find themselves in the immediate vicinity of an air raid incident involving casualties. While it is right for any person to render assistance under such circumstances, it must be realized that unorganized help may do more harm than good and may even endanger the lives of persons trapped in debris.

2. The following instructions will be made known to all US military personnel.
a. The senior officer or NCO present at such an incident will immediately take command of all military personnel present and organize them into parties of approximately ten men, each under a leader. Such senior officer or NCO will then report to the Civil Defense Incident Officer (who wears a blue cover on his steel helmet and whose post is marked by a blue lamp or flag) and act under his instructions. In the absence of an Incident Officer instructions will be taken from the senior Civil Defense Officer present.

b. It is the duty of all service men present to place themselves under the command of the officer or NCO who is organizing the parties; they will not attempt to carry out rescue work independently.

c. In general, the types of work contemplated for such parties are:

- (1) Clearing light debris from the site.
- (2) Clearing roads.
- (3) Assisting the civil police in control of the public and establishing cordons.
- (4) Acting as messengers and stretcher bearers.

3. These instructions are applicable only to such officers and men as are present at such an incident and not engaged in performing previously assigned duties. They will not be construed as calling for any personnel to cease other assigned duties, in the absence of competent orders so to do." HSS

NOTICE: Following letter received from Clerk of Works, A.M.W.D. and is quoted for your information and cooperation: "SEWAGE DISPOSAL: Considerable trouble has recently been experienced in connection with blockages to sewage drains. Upon investigation by this office, it was found that these obstructions were caused by numerous bulky objects such as: tins, unused toilet rolls, magazines and various articles of clothing. These articles were obviously tipped into manholes, from which the cover had been removed, by personnel on various sites. It will be appreciated that labour has to be diverted to this work, at the expense of work of a high priority, elsewhere on the base. 2. NOTICE: Following Commendation, Hq USSTAF, dtd 14 Aug 44, is quoted for the information of all personnel:

"1. The highly successful sustained period of very intensive operations accomplished by the Eighth Air Force since the end of July has been most gratifying. This period has seen attacks on targets, strategic and tactical, from the enemy coast to the Baltic and deepest Germany, and on operations ranging out to base at friendly air-dromes in Russia and Italy.

2. Your losses have been minimized by the terrific pressure that your Air Force has maintained through its unceasing bold attacks on the enemy's war machine; this dividend itself is a glowing commendation on your efficiency and offensive spirit.

3. I wish to extend my most hearty congratulations to all personnel responsible for the operational planning, the maintenance of the equipment and to the crews participating in this grand and lucrative series of attacks. Their outstanding achievements reflect greatest credit upon the Air Forces as a whole and upon your Command and its component echelons in particular. /s/ Carl Spaatz, Lt Gen., USA, Commanding

*Bill Jones was the continual griper type and, regardless of the time or place, never failed to reveal his feelings. Even the time his CO offered him a two-day pass Bill complained that he should have three. He was always harping about eating powdered eggs, eating out of mess kits and blaming the cooks for what he thought was poorly prepared meals. These complaints were so continual with Bill and he believed them so firmly that he became ill at mind, restless and, in general, impossible to get along with. Finally, Bill's First Sergeant suggested that he report for sick call.

The Station Surgeon recognized that Bill's problem was psychological and decided that the solution was to place him in a hospital for a few days and let Bill's own observations be his cure.

Even in the hospital Bill complained about the way his bed was made, his food not being served on time, and what he considered the ruthless way the nurse used the hypo needle on his arm. He was constantly calling for the nurse who was performing her duties in spite of being so tired she should have been in bed herself.

It was on the third day that Bill's bed-mates decided to take matters in their own hands. With the permission of the Station Surgeon, they took Bill to the Ward which housed some of the wounded men just brought in from the front. There Bill saw first-hand the hardships and results of war. He saw the blind, the crippled, the mangled bodies of half-dead infantrymen and air crew members. He listened to stories of which he had never dreamed. They told him what it was to live in a fox hole half filled with mud and water; to bail out of an airplane in the face of enemy fire; what it was to have a continual diet of K-rations or nothing at all; and what it is like for a soldier to see his best buddy get an enemy bullet through the stomach.

Yes! Bill learned many things of which he previously had no idea. He learned that we have 117,000 casualties in this war and the job is not even half done. He learned that the boys at the front were depending on him to buy the Bonds, furnish equipment, and to do his job perfectly so they could do theirs with the minimum loss of life. Yes! Bill had a rude awakening!

Are you a "Bill Jones" - a continual griper?

*"Bill Jones" is a fictitious name, and any similarity between the character portrayed above and any other person or persons by that name is purely coincident
