2. Crews Missing in Action

10 September 1944

751st Squadron

Gaggenau, Germany

A/C #42-97456 broke in two either just behind radio compartment, by rear door or behind tail wheel. Front part of plane went down like falling leaf and exploded on ground. After collision and break-off of aircraft, Sgt. Jacob E. Chimerinsky, 32878850, tail gunner, bailed out of the tail at about 16,000. 2nd Lt. Jerome W. Page, O-2056457, navigator, bailed out of the front part through the escape hatch at about 5000 feet after some difficulty in opening hatch. Lt. Page says waist gunner and ball turret were in waist at time of accident. Lt. Page says their bodies were found and that he identified them. Lt. Page says American soldiers saw the accident and told him they saw only two chutes and one possible body which fell without a chute. Both Lt. Page and Sgt. Chimerinsky believe no one parachuted to safety except themselves. A/C #42-97456 was flying #6 in low squadron of high box and A/C #42-97451 was flying #3 in same squadron. #42-97451 was in position. Sun glare apparently caused #42-97456 to pull up suddenly. Collision of the two A/C resulted.

12 September 1944                      751st Squadron                      Ruhland, Germany

Single enemy aircraft attacked Lt. Selling's plane, #42-31383, which was then flying off left wing of #3 aircraft. Attack occurred at about 1125 to 1133 hours. It apparently was made from about 0730 o'clock. Reports conflict as to extent of damage. One stated the A/C was hit by 10 to 15 20-mm shells in the cockpit and bomb-bay. Another said there was a bad fire in the cabin and behind #3 nacelle. A third report said the A/C exploded, and the tail came off. Still another report said a wing and elevator were on fire. Due to fact that the rest of the Group were under E/A attack at same time as this aircraft, observation was limited. One report says one man bailed out of a B-17 hit by E/A at this time, but it is not clear that this was #42-31383.

748th Squadron

Nijmegen, Holland

Moderate, accurate, tracking flak in area of Weert, Holland. Fire in #3 engine and possibly another of A/C #42-47951. Fire had apparently decreased when A/C was last sighted. Apparently not out of control. Three to four chutes were reported seen, and apparently one other man whose chute was not seen to open. One chute apparently from tail; others perhaps from waist. A/C was hit after I.P. and had its bomb-bay doors open. After being hit, it flashed green light, salvoed its bombs, lowered its wheels, closed bomb-bay doors, and left the formation; dropping, then rising again, then peeling off to left.

Light, accurate, tracking flak at Dutch Coast hit aircraft #42-32079 at 5235-0437 at 1533 hours at 18,000 feet. Top turret was blown off. A/C appeared to be hit either in cockpit, bomb-bay or radio room. Number 1 engine was out and feathered, number 2 engine was smoking. One witness states that there was a red flash in the nose, that the nose blew out, that cockpit was blown off, and that #3 and #4 engines were also feathered. A/C did not appear out of control when last seen. When first hit, it drifted off course to left, it lost, then regained altitude. Witness who reported that nose was blown out and cockpit blown off also states he saw pilot and co-pilot still working. One witness watched A/C until he lost sight of it.

25 to 50 He-109's and FW-190's attacked group just before I.P. Three attacks made from four to nine o'clock low. A/C #43-37518 apparently burst into flames between #3 engine and fuselage on right side. Black smoke was pouring from aircraft when last seen a few seconds after it was hit. A/C slid off to left when hit, then salvaged bombs, then immediately went into a dive. No chutes seen although there apparently was time for men to bail out.

Between 1146 hours, the time of the first attack, and 1159 hours this A/C, #43-38181 and five others in the low squadron dropped out of the formation. Four of these were from the low flight which contained only five A/C at the time, and two were from the high flight, which contained three A/C. During these attacks number 43-38181 was seen with 20 mm shells bursting around #1 and #2 engines. What happened to this A/C subsequently is not known.

Moderate, fairly accurate flak barrage type, hit this A/C #42-102948 just after bombs away, which was at 1159 hours. Direct hit in #3 engine. A/C caught fire. Witnesses differ as to whether fire appeared to go out or continue. A/C appeared to go down under control, leveling off after a 5,000 foot drop. No chutes observed, although men had time to bail out.

Light to moderate, fairly accurate flak, predicted concentration type, encountered at target. Nose of A/C #43-38538 crumpled forward and down. One wing or parts of both wings broke off. There was a bright red flash seen, apparently forward of bomb bay or between #3 and #4 engines. Parts of tail section appeared to break off. Large quantity of chaff was seen. A/C dropped immediately after the apparent explosion, almost leveled off, then went straight down. Most reports say that two men came out but that no chutes were seen to open. Two witnesses think they saw two chutes. One witness says that two men appeared to come out feet first from the left side but that he did not see any chutes open. Incident occurred at 135<sup>1/2</sup> at 27,000 feet. Aircraft had released its bombs, and about ten of the bombs had come out of the bomb bay in train. A/C was carrying twelve 500 lb GP's. Two flak bursts were seen to right of aircraft before it broke up. Several witnesses state that plane did not break up before it went down.

OPERATIONAL NARRATIVE

Mission #101

ANKLAM

4 August 1944

Following virtually the same route as that of its mission of 18 July, the group today attacked the Anklam air depot in Northern Germany. The 18 July mission had been to the air experimental station at Peenemunde and at that time our crews had been ordered to photograph Anklam and vicinity. These photographs were used to plan today's mission.

The group put up the high box, 12 aircraft of the 94th "B" CGW, one of twenty-three wings of 8th Air Force heavy bombers dispatched against oil refineries, aircraft components and assembly plants and other targets in the North Sea-Baltic area from Bremen to Peenemunde. The lead and low boxes of our wing were filled by the 351st Group, while the 401st Group made up the 94th "A" Wing which had a different MPI on the same target. Another 1st Division Wing followed us on the same target, two more hit an assembly plant in Anklam city and six more made another attack on Peenemunde.

After take-off at 0920 hours the route led the group across the North Sea, across the province of Schleswig-Holstein, north of Kiel, and the Danish Islands of Laaland and Falster to a point northeast of Cape Arkona. Thence the wings swung southeast to an I.P. in Pomeranian Bay east of Sassnitz.

The run from the I.P. to the target was on a true course of 215 degrees and lasted nine minutes. Cloud coverage in the target area was 3/10 to 5/10, but the target itself was not covered by clouds and a visual run was made with AFCE at 18,400 feet. The "B" Wing, however, was fifth in line and an earlier wing had bombed the assembly plant in the city of Anklam. Smoke billowed up from this and was carried by the wind in such a direction that it hid our MPI. The lead bombardier was unable to use triangulation methods because there was no extended vision in his bombsight. He therefore selected an alternate aiming point among the air depot buildings and bombed them. Leaving the target area, the crews saw fire and smoke among the installations and also noted large columns rising from Peenemunde.

Neither before this time nor after it were enemy aircraft met, and Flak encountered only at the target where it was meagre and inaccurate.

The return route brought the wings northwest from the target across the German coast and Mecklenburg Bay to a point east of Laaland and thence along practically the same route across Schleswig-Holstein to the North Sea and home.

Mission #102

PIEFS and COUBRONNE

4 August 1944

For its second operation of the day, while the Anklam mission was still on, the group sent up two 12-aircraft formations as the 94th "A" and "B" forces against Piefs and Coubronne, noball targets in France. This operation factory in Germany and main producer of B 605 and 603 engines as well as maker of jet engines.

Our Group put up three twelve aircraft boxes, forming the 9th "C" Combat Wing, for this thrust into the heart of the Reich, and there was no abort. With the Group flying ninth position, after a 0705 hours take-off, the 1st Division pointed out across the North Sea such as on the previous day's mission, crossed the enemy coast in the same area and again struck southeast between Hamburg and Bremen. Near Lüneburg the Group had a near encounter with from 30 to 60 enemy aircraft identified as Me-109's. These passed our formation without attacking, apparently trying to evade P-51s. Thence the route led to a point forty miles north-northeast of Berlin and from that point arced around the city in a clockwise direction.

From the I.P., southeast of the capital, the target was clearly identifiable, and the bombardiers of all three boxes picked it up. The MPis were workshops dispersed in the wooded area of the plant. It was a comparatively short run from the I.P. — six and a half minutes — and flak was thick, but the "C" Wing bored right forward on a magnetic heading of 296 degrees at 25,000 feet and salvoed its 500-pound GPs on the factory area.

The Wing turned left after bombs away and was not in flak more than three or four minutes, but one of our ships, apparently hit by flak, was brought down. This was A/C #131, piloted by Lt. Frost. It was reported hit in number 2 engine, with its left wing in flames. From six to eight chutes were said to have been seen, but one of these fouled and the man fell without it. The aircraft finally blew up.

The return route, like the penetration, was much as briefed. From southwest of Hamburg the withdrawal and penetration routes were the same.

Mission #105

NANTEUIL -- Bridge

7 August 1944

Oil dumps and bridges over a wide area of France were the targets of twenty-nine combat wings of 8th Air Force heavy bombers today. All units of the 1st Division except the 457th Group attacked oil installations. Our Group, which was the 9th "B" Wing, flew eighth in the Division, and its target was the 3-span railway bridge over the Marne River at Nanteuil, 40 miles east of Paris. This railway is a traffic artery between Paris and Strasbourg.

The route for the three 12-A/C boxes of the Group crossed the French Coast at the eastern end of the Allied bridgehead, near Gabourg, turned southeastward and passed south of Paris, skirting the forest of Fontainebleau. The bomb run was made from the south.

There were clouds in the target area and some haze but the target itself was clear. Approaching it, however, the lead bombardier was unable to synchronize properly, since his rate hair appeared to move, and he did not choose to drop. The low and high boxes, however, did drop. In order to permit the lead box to bomb too, a 360-degree turn was made, and this time the lead box bombs were dropped, although smoke obscured the MPI and caused the selection of an alternate aiming point on the east approach rather than the bridge proper. The bombing altitude was 22,000 feet and the magnetic heading was 310 degrees.

Turning left off the target, the wing for a short time headed straight for Paris, then swung south across the Fontainebleau forest, picked up the route in and followed it homeward.

From the standpoint of enemy opposition, the mission was largely uneventful. No enemy aircraft were seen, and the only flak encountered was light and inaccurate near the French Coast.

Mission #106

ELSENBORN, BELGIUM

9 August 1944

Success of this day's mission by 17 Combat Wings of heavy bombers against aircraft and tank plants and air and fuel depots in southwestern Germany, was prevented by the weather. The target of our Group, forming the lead and low boxes of 12 A/C each of the 94th "A" Combat Wing, was the Neubiberg Air Depot, southeast of Munich, but our planes never reached it. Instead they bombed a barracks area near Elsenborn, Belgium.

The route was rough from both a weather and flak standpoint. Just after crossing the Dutch Coast at Overflakkee, the wing had to climb to 23,000 feet to get above clouds, and as the planes penetrated southeastward conditions grew worse. Passing between Liege and Aachen, the formation was hit by anti-aircraft fire through clouds. Dense, persistent contrails, combined with the clouds, finally made farther penetration inadvisable, the planes flying at times with complete undercast and overcast. At 1020 hours, about 25 miles north of Strasbourg, there was a Division recall. The wing did a 180 degree turn and commenced "S-ing" in search of a target of opportunity. A barracks area thought to be in Germany but which later turned out to be in Belgium, was selected as a target and the wing dropped their 500-lb GP's from 21,000 feet on a magnetic heading of 290 degrees.

On withdrawal the wing again encountered flak in the Aachen-Liege passage. Otherwise the return flight was without any special incident. The Group's battle damage for the day was 5 major and 13 minor.

Mission #107

BREST, FRANCE

11 August 1944

Our Group today attacked Brest, one of the few remaining strong points held by the enemy in the Brest Peninsula. The attack was one of those made by 23 Combat Wings of the 8th Air Force on targets including marshalling yards and fuel dumps in northeastern France and air fields and fuel dumps in the Paris area. Our Group, forming the 94th "C" Wing, was third on the target and first on our MPIs, a trio of defended areas including a heavy coastal battery, the reduction of which was desired by allied ground and naval forces ringing the port. Three 12 A/C boxes were put up by the 457th.

The route both to and from the target was over water most of the time after leaving Start Point. The I.P. was in the sea southwest of the peninsula's tip and the axis of attack was 47 degrees. Crossing the entrance to Brest harbor in clear weather, the wing made a visual bomb run at 25,000 feet and dropped its 500-lb HIX's at 1708 hours. The run was six minutes. Flak was meagre and not very accurate, but A/C #073, piloted by Lt. Ross, was hit in #3 and #4 engines and left the formation about ten minutes later near the north coast of the peninsula. It developed later that the entire crew bailed out and came into allied hands.

The route back to the base was otherwise without incident.

Mission #108

BRIONNE AREA, FRANCE

13 August 1944

Important highways on both sides of the Seine River between Le Havre and Paris were among the targets of 30 wings of 8th Air Force heavy bombers today, other targets being a railroad bridge and three coastal batteries. The 457th Group's part in these efforts to thwart the enemy ground forces' escape in the Battle of France was the bombing of three road junctions in the area between Bernay and Rouen.

The Group put up the usual three 12 A/C boxes, making up the 94th "C" Wing and flying twelfth and last in the 1st Division. The 457th followed the air armada south across the channel from Little Hampton and crossed the center of the erstwhile allied beachhead to a point west of Argentan. There the route led east to the I.P. at the village of Cace. Fanning out slightly toward the targets, which were several miles apart, the three boxes dropped their 1000 lb GP's visually from 20,000 feet at 1321 hours. The bomb run was 13 minutes and the mean axis of attack was 41 degrees.

Rouen, enemy-held and flak-defended, lay directly ahead, so the boxes turned to avoid it, the lead and low to the right and the high to the left. The flak encountered was meagre but accurate. Nine aircraft were damaged but no one hurt. The boxes joined beyond Rouen and crossed the French Coast west of Bieppe and came home uneventfully.

STUTTGART

14 August 1944

Twenty-six combat wings of 8th Air Force heavy bombers went out today against aero-engine factories, airfields and an oil plant in southwest Germany, bridges and airfields in eastern France and two marshalling yards in the Bordeaux region, and in all areas but one there was clear weather and visual sighting. The exception was the Stuttgart area, and that is where our Group's target lay.

Our three boxes of 12 aircraft each formed the 94th "C" Combat Wing and their target was the Daimler Benz aircraft engine factory at Sindelfingen, southwest of Stuttgart city. Taking off at 0735 hours and flying third in both Wing and Division, the group made landfall in Holland and flew a southerly course across Belgium to St. Mihiel, France, then turned eastward. The course went as far east as Ulm, Germany, where it curved northward to approach the target from the east.

At the I.P. the boxes took interval for a visual run. Clouds, however, - about 7/10 to 9/10 undercast at approximately 5,000 feet - intervened to prevent the lead and high boxes from bombing. But the low box was able to pick up the primary and dropped its 500 pound GPs and RDXs - 10 bombs per aircraft - from 24,200 feet on a magnetic heading of 300 degrees after a 13-minute run.

The lead and high boxes flew on eastward to the secondary target, with the low box remaining in position. The secondary was the airfield at Haguennu, France, north of Strasbourg. Both boxes - the lead with the same bomb load as the low, and the high with 500 pound incendiaries - made visual runs of five minutes, bombing from 24,900 feet and 25,600 feet respectively on a magnetic heading of 269 degrees.

Subsequent attack photos indicated a deflection error of 1250 feet by the lead box, while the high boxes' incendiaries on the same target could not be plotted. The low boxes' hits were obscured by clouds but appeared to be considerably beyond the MPI.

From Haguennu the Wing flew west northwest, skirting Luxembourg, then struck north virtually about the route of penetration. It reached home having encountered only meagre flak and no enemy aircraft and having suffered no battle damage.

Mission #110

SCHKENDITZ

16 August 1944

Striking at two of the enemy's most important industries, oil refineries and aircraft plants, twenty-three wings of American heavies today penetrated central Germany. One of the wings of three 12-aircraft boxes each put up by the 457th.

The target of our Group was the aircraft assembly factory at Schkenditz, near Leipzig, reported to be the main assembly plant of Ju-88 fighters, which seemed to have taken the place of Me-110's and He-110's as the main twin-engined fighter. The Group comprised the 94th "B" Wing and flew tenth in the Division.

Crossing the Dutch Coast and the Zuider Zee, the route took the wings to the Dummer Lake region, where it bent southeast past Hannover to Gotha, then turned eastward and swung gradually to port until it reached the I.P., Torgau, east-northeast of Leipzig.

The feature of the attack on the target was the duration of flak encountered. Half-way down the bomb run the flak began and from there on the Group was in it for about twenty minutes. Before emerging from it, twenty-six aircraft suffered battle damage and three crew members were wounded.

[REDACTED]

In spite of this, however, our Group which followed the 401st on the target, pressed forward determinedly to drop its bombs on the target from 25,000 feet on a magnetic heading of 254 degrees at 1124 hours. The bomb run of ten minutes was made in CAVU weather except for some haze.

The bombfalls of both the lead and low boxes, carrying 1000-pound GP's, covered their MPis, but the fragmentation clusters of the high box hit considerably short.

Leaving the all too extensive flak area of Leipzig, the wings turned north-westward and pursued a course similar to the penetration, once again crossing the Zuider Zee on the way home.

Despite the flak and length of the mission, our Group returned to base without loss.

Mission #111

HUY (Bridge), BELGIUM

18 August 1944

Today's targets for heavy bombers were of a tactical nature, the 8th Air Force sending out seventeen combat wings to attack bridges, air-fields, fuel dumps, and one aero-engine plant in France and Belgium. Our Group's target was a railroad bridge over the Meuse River at Huy, 15 miles southwest of Liege, Belgium. The bridge, a 350-foot long affair of partly temporary wooden structure, was a main supply line to northern France.

Forming the 9th "A" Wing and flying fifth in the 1st Division, the Group crossed the enemy coast at Overflaksee, then turned due south into Belgium to a point southwest of Brussels, where it swung eastward again. The bomb run was in this general direction.

All three boxes made visual runs but 5/10 cloud cover and haze made aiming point identification difficult. However, the patterns of the 1000-pound GP's dropped by the 12-aircraft formations from 25,000 feet at 1805 hours on a magnetic heading of 102 degrees covered the bridge and put it out of commission.

After the target the Group headed north-northeast to the Dutch border, then withdrew across Holland to Overflaksee.

No flak or fighters were encountered at any time.

Mission #112

WEINAR

24 August 1944

Thirteen hundred heavy bombers were dispatched today on policing attacks on German oil refineries from Hanover to Brux and aircraft factories in the Brunswick/Leipzig area. The 457th Group was assigned a land armament factory located five miles northwest of Weinar worked by political prisoners from an adjoining concentration camp. Gestapo barracks and a headquarters was also in the target area. Recent reports were that the factory was also engaged in producing the V-2 rocket bomb.

The 36 planes with Major Smith--Capt. Schuchman leading took off about 0630 to form as the 9th "A" Combat Wing. The Division column was not achieved over England and the 9th "A" Wing had to "S" on course over the North Sea to allow other Wings to gain their proper position. As the German coast was pierced near the mouth of the Elbe River all clouds had disappeared. Hamburg and Bremen were passed on the left and right as the formation headed southeast for the Berlin/Magdeburg gap. Shortly before reaching this point, near Stendahl, Lt. Shaw in the low box was seen to leave the formation and head back. He was never seen again. No fighters or flak had been encountered.

When the formation swung around to the east and south of Leipzig to approach the I.P., Lt. Pugh's plane peeled off at 25,000 feet, spiralled down, whipped up into a stall and then spun down, exploding at about 10,000 feet, with four to five chutes observed before. It was believed to have been hit by a jet propelled aircraft.

At the I.P., Naumburg, the boxes took interval for the bomb run in a cloudfree sky. All three Bombardiers easily located the target. Lt. Tenelli in the lead box and Lt. Traylor in the high box covered half of the compact mass of buildings in the factory area with some bombs falling over into the Gestapo area. Lt. Kolstoe in the low box put most of his bombs off to the left in the woods but some reached into a corner of the stores area of the plant. The place was left a smoking, burning mass as the boxes rallied into a wing formation and headed northwest for their exit from Germany near Baden. No fighters and flak were seen on the way. Apart from the two aircraft lost only four had received damage. This was by a little flak at the target.

Let-down was made over the North Sea and the planes returned to Glatton at 1500.

Mission #113

PEENEMUNDE

25 August 1944

The heavy bomber effort of the Eighth Air Force shifted today from central Germany to targets in northern Germany along or near the Baltic Sea Coast. Aircraft plants and oil refineries at Politz, Rostock, Lubeck, Wismar, Anklam, Rochlin, and other points were targets. The 457th Group was directed to attack the electrolytic hydrogen plant building at Peenemunde on the shore of the Baltic, already damaged in previous attacks.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Colonel Luper flying with Capt. Dowler led the three boxes in their take-off at 0800 to compose the 9th "A" Combat Wing, leading the 1st Division in the flight across the North Sea to the target. Considerable difference between the briefed and actual winds over the North Sea caused the formation to gain 12 minutes time. The formation then led the Division in a turn left of course and "S"ed to prevent bunching up on the ten combat wings of the 3rd Division flying ahead. Considerable German shipping was seen after the Danish Peninsula was crossed as the flight east to the I.P. was continued. Heading into Peenemunde from the northeast the target area was quickly picked up by the Bombardiers in each of the three boxes. The 1000-pound bombs were released at 1250 from 22,000 feet, those of the lead box falling slightly over the electrolytic H2O2 building with five probable hits. Those of the low box fell slightly to the left with several possible hits and those of the high box fell squarely on the building. A few seconds after bombs away Lt. Goss' plane was hit in the left wing and the flap fell off. He peeled off from the formation and headed for Sweden. He was later reported to have crashed and burned there.

The return flight back over the same route was flown without fighter attacks and little flak. Base was reached at 1630.

For the second day twelve hundred planes had dropped bombs on German targets. Today no German fighter opposition was evoked and all of the twenty losses were caused by flak and operational reasons.

Mission #111

HENIN-LISTARD

25 August 1944

With thirty six planes already enroute to Peenemunde to attack a plant manufacturing fuel for rocket fighters the 457th Group was alerted for a mission on a plant in France manufacturing liquid oxygen to be used in the V-2 rocket bomb. Four similar plants in the Lille area were assigned to other 1st Division groups. That of the 457th Group was located at Henin-Listard near Douai.

Major Snow flying with Capt. Belcher led the twelve planes in their mid-afternoon take off. The flight to the target was over a circuitous route which left England at Selsey Bill and went south around Le Harve to approach the target from the south. At the IP the low squadron of six ships uncovered the lead squadron as the bombing was to be done in six plane boxes.

Lt. Rosen in the first box lead had difficulty in picking up the target because of thick ground haze, but dropped his bombs squarely on the plant. There was one extremely large explosion and another smaller one. Black smoke shot thousands of feet into the air.

Lt. Scott in the low box did not pick up the target so second run was made. This time he located it too late and when he released the bombs they fell 3000 feet away but near a target assigned to the 301st Group.

[REDACTED]

No flak was encountered at the target or any place on the route. On the flight out the lead squadron executed a 360 degree turn over the channel to permit the low squadron to catch up. Thereafter a let down was made and flight home resumed.

Mission #116

KIEL

30 August 1944

Twenty-five combat wings of the 8th Air Force heavies went out in two operations today, eight against noball targets in the Pas de Calais area and the rest against the U-boat base and shipyards at Kiel and A/C and M/T plants at Bremen. The 457th was in the latter operation, its target being Kiel's shipyard with its 250,000 square feet of facilities.

The mission was PFF. Cumulous clouds became 10/10 about 50 miles out from the English Coast after a 1240 hours take-off and that coverage persisted until the return to base.

Our Group flew the 94th "A" Wing and was led by Major Smith. It was fourth of eight wings on the same target. The route led across the North Sea to a landfall midway between the mouths of the Elbe and Weser Rivers. At the last turn before the I.P., the Division swung wide to the right and did not come over the briefed I.P., but used one a few miles northwest of Hamburg instead.

About 4 1/2 minutes before the bomb release line, the PFF equipment in the lead ship went out of commission and the deputy, Lt. Ornsky, took over. All three of the 12-aircraft boxes dropped on the deputy lead's smoke markers from 26,000 feet on a magnetic heading of 355 degrees at 1616 hours. The lead and low boxes carried 1000-pound GP's while the high carried 500-pound incendiaries.

Flak at the target was moderate but inaccurate, and there were no enemy aircraft opposition. The flight home, which curved out across Kiel Bay and crossed the peninsula south of Flensburg to reach the North Sea again, was uneventful.

RECREATION AND WELFARE

1. Special Services

For musical entertainment for month of September, Special Service had on 7 September the G.I. show "Browned Off" and the USO show "Playtime" on 26 September. The attendance for both of these shows was very high, both drawing over 1600 spectators. Those who turned out for these performances were not disappointed for they were treated to some very fine numbers both in the way of jokes and musical numbers.

For those interested in "Cutting the Rug" on the dance floor there were several opportunities. The Officers Club held their dance on 16 September. "The Fireballs" played for this dance and it was greatly enjoyed by all. The NCO Club had a dance on 6 September and another 20 September. "The Fireballs" played at both of these dances and came through with flying colors as usual. Other dances for the EM were on the 1st, 8th, 15th, and the 29th of September. The male and female attendance for all dances was very good.

The 468th Sub-Depot Softball team defeated the 751st Bomb Sq. team in a best two out of three series to annex the Station softball championship. This was a climax to a highly successful season in which 125 men representing 12 organizations participated.

Army Talks have surpassed all their previous achievements by passing the 1500 mark in attendance. The most interesting discussions on the most talked about subjects of the day included "G.I. Bill of Rights," "What the German POW Thinks of Us," "The Pacific Theater" and other educational topics. There has been a marked increase in the number of applications for USAFI courses and a number of inquiries about short leave courses in English Universities. There were three applications for short leave courses.

This station finished third in 1st Division in the 8th Air Force Victory Squadron War Bond Drive. Over $144,000 (maturity value) of bonds were sold at this station. The percentage rating for this station was 167.7 in amount of bonds sold.

The Aero Club was going strong in September. Participation there was in ping-pong, pool, chess, checkers, library, recordings and refreshments. There is also a gymnasium there for the athletically-minded. A lecture is also given every Wednesday evening on current events or other topics of interest.

2. American Red Cross

The following is an analysis of the case work on this Station for the month of September:

Cases carried over from the month of August .....	30
New and re-opened cases .....	16
Brief Service Cases .....	35
Incidental Services to the soldier .....	407
Number of Loans .....	1 - 5

Field Service and the demand for Field Service tend to increase in direct proportion to the length of time the men are away from home. It is the definite job of the Field Service to keep the men informed of home conditions, and keep the people at home in touch with the soldier away from home, especially when emergencies occur. In this my first month as Field Director at Glatton it has been somewhat difficult getting acquainted with the men, but I am confident as I get better acquainted with the men on this Station, the Red Cross will be in a position to render them a real service.

The Aero Club is a popular place with the men, and it has been used constantly by them for almost a year of operation. The Club needs a considerable amount of redecorating, alterations to the lighting, and a general going over to make it more comfortable and home-like for the men. This is on the way to being accomplished, as we are constantly on the look out for more comfortable furniture. New snack bar offerings are being sought to appease the never ending appetite of the Servicemen. With the advent of Winter we are going to need different heating arrangements, if the Club is going to be more comfortable for the men, as a cold Club has little attraction for the Servicemen. We have been instituting alterations to the Club to amend this condition.

There are now three American girls on the Staff, viz:

Miss Ethelmore Secord, Club Director, from Elm Grove, Wis.
Miss Lila Giardini, Staff Asst., from Winchenden, Mass.
Miss Rachael Patterson, Staff Asst., from Knoxville, Tenn.

Clubmobile as far as this Station is concerned, is in a very transient period. This Station along with two others, has been selected as a sort of experiment in Clubmobile work. Heretofore, Clubmobile has been merely supplemental in the daylight feeding of the men, and this contribution as a service, was always open to challenge. The new Clubmobile service arrangement is the servicing of the men working on the line at night, they plan to have coffee and doughnuts on the line these cold wet nights when the men are working on the planes that are to go on the next day's mission. We in the Red Cross believe that this is a definite service, and are hoping that Clubmobile can do such a great job on this Station that other 8th Air Force Stations may have the same service.

STORIES OF THE MONTH

Lt. Col. Rod L. Francis

Rod L. Francis, husband of Mrs. Frances B. Francis, of 1201 Poplar St., Jackson, Mississippi, has been promoted from the rank of major to lieutenant colonel, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Colonel Francis' military career started back in 1937, when he joined the Army Air Force as a private. He was sent to the Hawaiian Islands, where he served for two years. Upon returning to the United States he left the Air Force to attend Hinds Junior College, and after his graduation he re-enlisted in the Air Force as a flying cadet. After months of intensive study and training, he earned his wings and was assigned to the Second Air Force to train combat crews. He was then given the command of a B-17 Flying Fortress squadron and trained them in the science and art of aerial warfare. Early this year he brought his squadron overseas, and as part of this group his squadron established an excellent record.

[REDACTED]

When the order arrived for this group to participate in the Eighth Air Force's first daylight bombing assault against the Nazi capital, Colonel Francis was chosen to serve as air commander on that epic day. He led his group over Berlin and bombed the target with excellent results. Since then he has been on bombing missions over Berlin three times. Once while leading the group over Hannover a direct flak hit set the bomb bay of his Fortress afire. For ten minutes flames threatened to blow the bombs up, but Colonel Francis held the aircraft on a steady course while the crew fought the flames. They finally succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but as they came closer to the target more and more flak was encountered and the Fort was continually being hit. Colonel Francis using his superior airmanship still maintained his lead position in the formation though the bomber was becoming very difficult to control. At last he reached the target and led the group on a highly successful bombing run. When he set his plane down, in England, more than three hundred holes were counted in the sturdy bomber.

Colonel Francis is now deputy group commander of this Flying Fortress group, which has one of the finest bombing records in the Eighth Air Force.

During his combat career, Colonel Francis has been decorated with the Purple Heart and the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Francis of Terry, Mississippi.

Major Harry E. Lawrence

Major Harry E. Lawrence of 1536 S. St. Paul St., Denver, Colorado, was recently decorated with the Soldier's Medal, for his heroic actions, when an aircraft returning from a combat mission landed without brakes and subsequently was out of control the instant it touched the runway. The pilot tried desperately to control the ship, but it was impossible. The aircraft left the runway and headed directly for a dispersal area where several bombers were parked. The pilot attempted to ground loop the ship without success. Still out of control, the damaged aircraft hit the wing of one bomber and crashed head on into another. Instantly a terrific fire developed followed by numerous explosions. The entire crew miraculously escaped. In a matter of seconds, flames shot two and three hundred feet in the air. Two Fortresses were parked dangerously close to the fire. Major Lawrence proceeded to the scene of the accident, where he skillfully directed the fire fighting operations and the removal of the nearby bombers that were in danger of catching fire. Ignoring the exploding shells and flares and the intense heat of the fire, Major Lawrence attached a cable tow line to the tail assembly of one of the burning Forts and had it pulled away from the flames. His actions saved much government property from destruction and prevented the fire from spreading. The heroism displayed by Major Lawrence on this occasion reflects the highest credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States.

In 1920 Major Lawrence joined the Army Air Forces, and has served as a crew chief, line chief and flight chief. For nine years he was a first sergeant. Two years ago Major Lawrence received his commission and has been promoted rapidly, until he has attained his present post in which he has been operating so well.

Capt. Mark R. Belcher, Jr.

Captain Mark R. Belcher, Jr., son of Mr. Mark R. Belcher, Sr., 1801 Elizabeth Street, Pueblo, Colorado and husband of Adah Mae Belcher, 120 Polk Street, Pueblo, Colorado, has been decorated with an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Flying Cross, it was announced recently by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

The award came to him for "extraordinary achievement while serving as a pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress on a bombardment mission over Germany." On this mission, the Fortress, piloted by Captain Belcher, was heavily damaged by an intense barrage of anti-aircraft fire and forced out of the formation almost over the target. Several of the crew members were wounded when one of the bursts of flak hit the fuselage. Other direct hits started fires, one dangerously close to the main fuel tank. Captain Belcher, on his inspection tour of the damaged plane, aided in the extinguishing of this fire and returned to his post. Despite the hazard and a faltering engine, he was able to resume his position in the formation. After reaching the English Channel, the damaged engine suddenly stopped and the propeller began windmilling wildly. Only through expert skill and judgment was Captain Belcher able to bring the crippled Fortress back to land safely in England.

Captain Belcher is a veteran of many of the most successful huge daylight assaults of the Eighth Air Force. Among the targets, bombed by him, were the marshalling yards, munitions works, and military installations in the Berlin area, aero-engine factories in Munich, and industrial plants in Schweinfurt. Time and again he has shown the superior ability and resourcefulness that is characteristic of the pilots of the United States Army Air Forces.

In addition to the Distinguished Flying Cross and an Oak Leaf Cluster, he has been decorated with the Air Medal and 3 Oak Leaf Clusters.

Captain Belcher, a native of Colorado, graduated from the Centennial High School, Pueblo, Colorado, Class of 1938. He then attended Antioch College to study chemistry and business administration.

Prior to his entry into the Army Air Forces on April 17, 1942, he was the assistant manager and registrar of the Pueblo Airport.

Capt. Charles D. Braman

Captain Charles D. Braman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Braman, of 341 Ninth Ave. N., St. Petersburg, Florida, has been decorated with an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Flying Cross, it was recently announced by the commanding general, Eighth Air Force.

Captain Braman is the pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress and is a veteran of more than a score of the Eighth Air Force's huge daylight bombing assaults against the Nazi war machine.

He was decorated for leading his group on a series of bombardment missions over Germany and German-occupied Europe. In spite of adverse weather conditions and enemy fighter and anti-aircraft opposition, Captain Braman led his formations to their targets and bombed them with outstanding results. His Fort was hit and damaged severely on many of these missions, but his superior airmanship prevailed and he brought his ship and crew back to England safely on all these occasions.

[REDACTED]

Captain Brannan was graduated from the St. Petersburg Senior High School, in 1935, where he played on the varsity football team. He attended the University of Florida, where he majored in the study of history.

'Oh Kay', one of our veteran Fortresses which went down on a recent mission to Germany, had flown on 66 combat missions without an abort. The crew chief is M/Sgt. Robert W. Vaughn, of Brentwood, Tenn. and the assistant crew chief is Sgt. Charles N. Salmon, Jr., of Elk Hill, Virginia. Pictured with Sgt. Vaughn is the 748th Squadron Engineering Officer, Lt. William P. Roach.

Picture missing

The Fortress 'Jayhawk' of this group has flown 73 combat missions without an abort until it went down on a mission to Germany. T/Sgt. Samuel Swochka, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. is crew chief, assisted by Sgt. Harry Rappaport, of the Bronx, N.Y. The officer posing with him is Capt. Guy C. Sturdevant (then lieutenant), 749th Squadron Engineering Officer.

[REDACTED]

When a B-17 Flying Fortress is able to complete 66 missions over Germany and enemy occupied Europe without once having to turn back, because of mechanical difficulties, it is usually because the ground crew chief and his men are "on the ball."

Such is the case of the Flying Fortress of the 748th Bomb Squadron known as "Oh-Kay." Master Sergeant Robert W. Vaughn, of Chattanooga, Tenn., is the crew chief of this B-17 Flying Fortress. He had nursed his ship through its battle wounds, as though the ship were a living thing. After some of the rough missions "Oh-Kay" would return badly scared from flak and vicious fighter attacks; then Sergeant Vaughn would begin his long and tiring hours of getting the big ship ready to go the next day. Sometimes it was raining or a bitter cold wind would be blowing over the field, but the repairs had to be made, and the young Tenn. Sergeant would plug along with the rest of his crew all through the night making the necessary repairs and checks to make sure that once in the air their ship would carry her bombs to Germany and drop them on the target.

The young Sergeant and his crew would anxiously wait for the big ship to come home after a day's activity, and when they would sight her preparing to land they would give a sigh of relief and satisfaction, knowing that their job was well done during the long night which preceded the mission.

Sergeant Vaughn attended the University of Tennessee, where he majored in the study of mechanical engineering.

Before joining the AAF in 1941 he was employed by the Tenn. Highway Department in the drafting Section.
