2. Crews Missing in Action

16 February 1945

748th Squadron

Gelsenkirchen, Germany

██████████

Moderate to intense, accurate, continuously pointed and barrage flak was encountered in target area at time missing aircraft was lost. A/C 44-6831 was apparently hit by flak in the vicinity of the number three engine. The right wing folded up, broke off and went down. The rest of the airplane turned over on its back. It was burning. After the aircraft turned over on its back, it appeared to continue to roll, completing two slow rolls. It then went down in a sort of a spin. There was an explosion as the aircraft went down, but the aircraft was not seen to disintegrate. It was seen until it was 3,000 to 4,000 feet below the formation. It was then lost to view in contrails.

4. Training

Long range attacks by Eighth Air Force in coordination with the Russian Drive in the East, and in which the 457th Bomb Group played a vital part, have materially added to the work of the Prisoner of War Department. In addition to its normal routine of indoctrination and the issuance of escape aids, this Department has taken very effective measures to insure the safety of combat crews in event of emergency landing near the Russian lines.

Among new items of issue to the crews is a silk cloth on which appears an American Flag for identification and many important Russian phrases transcribed in English letters. Appearing below is a small Chit which is also distributed, containing the words "I am an American" in Russian and American phrases translated into Russian, this to be used as a "Pointie-talkie."

One of the projects of the Prisoner of War Department is an attractive display which appears below. This work of art was put together by Cpl. Lester Fried, Intelligence Clerk and originated by one of the Officers of the P/W Department.

This display advertises in a striking manner the contents of an escape kit plus all the extra gadgets and aids issued to combat crews for emergency use. At the present writing it is being exhibited at the Officers' Club and will later be transferred to the Acre Club for the interest of the Enlisted Men.

OPERATIONAL NARRATIVE

Mission #161

GERMANY

19 December 1945

The Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at briefed altitude. Fourteen (14) A/C failed to take off, six of which were in the lead and eight in the low squadron. The lead and low squadrons thus combined to form one squadron. The high squadron was intact.

The route over England was not flown as briefed. The Group was late leaving the Buncher, because of difficulties encountered during assembly, and departed directly to Splasher #6. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished with little difficulty.

Control Point #1 was reached on course, six minutes late. The Group was in proper position in Division formation. Division assembly line was flown approximately as briefed, except for the difference in time.

Course over enemy territory was flown as briefed. It was necessary to climb to briefed altitude plus 1,000 feet because of heavy contrails and clouds.

Bombing was done by means of G-8 equipment in squadron formation. The lead squadron swung wide at the I.P. A considerable interval existed between the squadrons because the high squadron had executed a 360 degree turn. At 1344 hours the 500 lb GP's were released from 24,500 feet.

Bombing results were unobserved due to 10/10 cloud coverage over the target area.

Course from the target was flown approximately as briefed and in proper position in Division formation. The Group entered the English coast at Felixstowe and was diverted to Portreath because Glatton was "closed in." A normal let-down was made and the Group landed without incident.

Mission #162

GERMANY

24 December 1945

PART 1 (Morning Take-Off). At 1024 hours, the formation began taking off. Seven A/C from this base were airborne before fog closed in and made it impossible for any more A/C to leave the ground. One of these seven A/C crashed and blew up off the end of the runway. Two of the Group A/C, having been diverted from the previous mission, took off from other bases and joined the A/C taking off from Glatton.

These eight A/C assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 7,000 feet and continued to circle the Buncher, waiting for the other A/C to join them. Word was then received from the tower that mission had been "scrubbed" and to proceed to Ridgwell and land. A little later a "stand-by" was received and shortly thereafter the squadron was advised by Newflick 3 to tack on to Deenethorpe and to proceed with the mission. The squadron flew as high-high squadron.

The squadron took interval behind the high squadron of the 401st Group, but the lead A/C was forced to abort after having been hit by AAFF and turned the lead over to the A/C flying #3 position (the deputy was not able to take over because of mechanical difficulties). Because of this, the squadron became separated from Deenethorpe and was not able to catch up. A visual run was made on Coblers. There was about 1/10 cloud coverage and visibility was fair. The MPI was not actually sighted because it was obscured by smoke and clouds, and bombing was done by triangulation, the 100 lb GP's being released at 1517 from 26,000 feet. No other difficulties were encountered. The lead A/C attacked a target of opportunity at 5014N-0645E and returned to base individually.

The other seven A/C, being unable to rally with Deenethorpe, tacked onto the 398th Group formation and flew the return route without incident. The A/C were diverted because of local weather conditions. A normal let-down was made and the A/C landed without further difficulty.

PART 2 (Afternoon Take-Off). Thirty-four A/C took off and assembled on the Glatton Bunker at 7,000 feet. No difficulties were encountered.

Route over England was flown at briefed altitude, on course.

No division assembly was accomplished. Control Point #1 was reached on course. Because of the late take-off, word was received to proceed forty miles east of Glatton and jettison their bombs in order to return to base by 1700 hours. After releasing their bombs, the Group executed a 180 degree turn and flew back to the Glatton Bunker. Local weather conditions prevented them from landing, and they were diverted to Eye and Norwich. One A/C went in to enemy territory alone and bombed Daun, a target of opportunity.

GEBOLSTEIN

27 December 1944

Assembly was on the Glatton Bunker at 10,000 feet as briefed. No difficulty was encountered.

The route over England was flown on time, on course, and at proper altitude until the vicinity of March when it became necessary to deviate approximately five miles north of course, in order to get into Combat Wing Formation. Route to Control Point #1 was flown north of course in trail of the 94th "A" Group Leader.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, at proper altitude, in proper position, but left of course. Division Assembly line was flown in trail of the 94th "A" Group. The whole Wing was able to get back on course before reaching Control Point #2.

[REDACTED]

Course to the target was flown approximately as briefed, except for minor deviations, in order to remain in Division Formation. The Group was about one minute early in arriving at the I.P. because of winds.

The Group came across the I.P. on course. The general target area was visual, and it was decided to attempt a visual run with GN assistance. Bombing was done by squadrons, in trail, but not in proper bombing order. The high squadron, not having heard the signal for a visual run, had prepared to bomb in Group formation and had pulled up close to the lead squadron. As the Group proceeded down the bomb run, the high squadron was not able to get behind the low squadron and proceeded to go down the run in trail of the lead. The lead and low squadrons attacked the primary target area visually, with GN assistance. The high squadron was not able to pick up the target on the run and executed a 360 degree turn in order to make a second run. The high squadron bombed in the smoke. There were no clouds, and visibility was good in the air. The visibility on the ground was poor, particularly in the target area, which was in a valley. C-1 Pilot functioned normally for all squadrons and the only other difficulty encountered was experienced by the low squadron which hit violent prop wash immediately prior to "bombs away." The mixed load of GP's and IB's were dropped from 22,750 feet at 1202 hours.

Bombing results was good.

After bombing, the lead and low squadrons, having rallied, made a wide turn off of the target to the left of the briefed course in an attempt to allow the high squadron to rejoin the Group. The high squadron was about four minutes behind the lead squadron, was never able to rally, and proceeded to base individually, following the briefed route. The route for the lead and low squadrons was flown approximately as briefed. The squadrons entered the English coast at Felixstowe, flew directly to the base, cutting off the last leg, and made a normal let-down and landed without further difficulty. The difference between the actual time and briefed was caused by the wide swing off the bomb run for the lead and low, and the 360 degree turn for the high squadron.

Mission #164

BIRMINGHAM

29 December 1944

The Group assembled on the Glatton Rancher at 8,000 feet as briefed.

The route over England was flown on time, on course, and at proper altitude until reaching Point "D". Combat Wing Assembly was effected without difficulty. At Point "D" and Control Point #1, some difficulty was encountered. "Foxhole Able" was out of position and attempted to cut in ahead of the 9th Combat Wing, forcing them to deviate to the right of course. "Foxhole Able" finally turned off to the left and got in proper position.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, a little right of course, for reasons stated above. The Group was on time, at proper altitude, in proper position, in Division formation.

[REDACTED]

On the route over enemy territory, the Group was south of course, in order to remain in Division formation. The interval between the preceding Groups and the 457th was approximately three minutes instead of two as briefed, as the Group ahead was climbing too fast. The interval was sufficiently closed before reaching the I.P.

The Group bombed in squadron formation, each squadron performing its own sighting operation. The I.P. was crossed a little south of course. Cloud coverage varied from 4 to 5/10ths; the general target area was clear. The MPI was identified by all squadrons about two minutes before the BRL. Some smoke from previous groups bombs obscured visibility. C-1 Pilot operated normally in all squadrons except the high, having a tendency to wander off a given course. The mixed load of GP's and IB's were dropped from 22,000 feet at 1307½ hours. No other difficulties were encountered.

Bombing results were observed to be very good.

Flight from the target was flown in trail in Division formation. The Group was south of course from target in order to stay in Division formation. The Group entered England at Felixstowe and made a normal let-down. No further difficulties were encountered.

Mission #165

KAISERSLAUTERN

30 December 1944

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 16,000 feet. The Group was two minutes late leaving the Buncher, because the Group was not completely assembled on time.

Because of being late, Point "G" was cut off and the Group proceeded directly to Thetford (Point "D"). The Group was still late and was unable to find the preceding Group. Point "E" was cut off and the formation proceeded directly to Point "Z" in an attempt to catch the Division formation.

Point "Z" (Dungeness) was reached two minutes late because of the inability to make up time over England, but the Group was on course and at proper altitude. Division Assembly Line was flown on course, and it is believed that the Group was in proper position although, because of the interval separating the two Groups (4 minutes), the preceding group was not able to be identified.

Course over the continent was flown as briefed until 0400E, with the exception that the Group was behind time and a considerable distance behind the preceding group. At 0400E, the formation went left of course in order to intercept the formation and to cut off the first turn after Control Point #2, in order to gain time. The Group joined in close formation with the Division at approximately 4955N-0525E. From this point on, the Group was in trail of the Division formation as it deviated to the right of the briefed course.

[REDACTED]

A run was begun on the visual target, but about one-quarter of the way down the run, it became evident that cloud coverage would not permit visual bombing. The formation then turned off to the right in order to make a run on the PFF secondary. Bombing was to be done in Group formation. The PFF equipment of both the lead and deputy lead A/C was not functioning normally and the lead was turned over to the high squadron leader. The high squadron leader passed directly over the target but did not know it because his PFF went out of commission just before the target. Shortly thereafter, the Group leader's PFF equipment began to function normally and he took over the lead, picked up an arbitrary I.P. and began a run from a southwestwardly direction. C-1 Pilot functioned normally and no difficulties were encountered. The mixed load of GP's and IB's were released on the Group leader at 1330 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours.

Bomb results were unobserved due to 10/10 cloud coverage.

After bombing, the Group turned off to the right in order to come back on course. After following the briefed course for approximately ten minutes, the formation deviated to the left of course in order to gain spacing behind the preceding group. After a sufficient interval had been established, the Group came back on course in trail of the Division leader. Deviations to the right of course, beginning at 0500E and continuing until the formation crossed the Belgian coast, were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. The Group entered the English coast at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down on the Glatton Buncher and landed without difficulty.

KREFELD

31 December 1944

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 17,000 feet as briefed.

The route over England was flown approximately as briefed. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without difficulty at 1000 hours at Point "E". The Group swung out a little to the left of briefed course in order to get in Division formation.

Control Point #1 was reached a minute early and approximately on course with the Group in proper position in Division formation. Division Assembly line was flown as briefed.

Course to the target was flown on the briefed route but the Group was behind schedule because of head winds (seven minutes late at the I.P.). No other difficulties were encountered.

The I.P. was not visible and it was decided to bomb in Group formation by means of Gee-H equipment, with a possible visual assist. Cloud coverage was 10/10ths during the majority of the run, clearing to 2 to 3/10ths near the BRL. Bombing was done entirely by Gee-H. The high squadron was a little behind and was unable to see the smoke markers of the lead, but sighted "bombs away." The Bombardier held the bombs momentarily and then released. C-1 Pilot functioned normally for all squadrons. The fluxgate compass of the lead

[REDACTED]

A/C of the lead squadron was not functioning normally. The mixed load of GP's and ID's were released from 27,100 feet at 1129 hours.

After bombing, the Group proceeded on the return route. Course was flown approximately as briefed except in the vicinity of the Belgian border when the Group deviated to the left of course in order to let down through the holes in the clouds. The formation came back on course at the Belgian coast, entered the English coast at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down and landed without difficulty.

Mission #167

KASSEL

1 January 1945

Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 5,000 feet as briefed. Some difficulty was encountered in assembly because of darkness.

After leaving the Buncher, the Group fell in Wing formation behind the 351st Group. It was necessary to "S" on course in order to stay behind Polebrook and to remain in Wing formation. Course over England was flown approximately as briefed.

Control Point #1 was reached 1½ minutes late because of the time initially lost in "S'ing" on the route over England. The Group was in proper position in Division formation and at briefed altitude. Division assembly line was flown approximately on the briefed course.

Over the North Sea, the Group deviated to the right of course (10 miles) in order to avoid clouds. At the Danish coast, several groups were jammed close together, and the 457th Group swung out wide to the right of course in order to gain sufficient interval behind the preceding groups.

The Group made a run on the primary target but it was covered over by clouds, and they proceeded to the visual secondary but it was also covered. It was then decided to proceed to Kassel and bomb by instruments. The majority of the bomb run was covered by clouds but the general target area was clear. The bomb run started out as a PFF run with squadrons in Group formation. As the lead Bombardier was able to pick up a selected HPI just after the I.P., it was decided to attack the target visually. There was not enough time to get in normal bombing order for a visual run, so bombing was done in Group formation, with all squadrons releasing their bombs on the smoke markers of the Group lead A/C. C-1 Pilot functioned normally. The 1000 lb GP's were released from 25,000 feet at 1248½ hours.

Bombing results were observed to be good.

After bombing, the Group swung back approximately on the briefed route. No difficulties were encountered. The formation entered the English coast at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down and landed without difficulty.

Mission #168

MAYEN

2 January 1945

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 16,000 feet. The Group was late forming because of darkness.

The course over England was not flown as briefed. The formation left the Buncher 12 minutes late and flew directly to Control Point #1 in order to pick up time. Points "A" and "C" were cut off. Combat Wing assembly was not accomplished until Control Point #1 because the 351st Group had flown the assembly course.

The Group arrived at Control Point #1 1½ minutes early on course and in proper position in Division formation. Division assembly line was flown approximately as briefed except that the formation was a little early.

Course over the continent was flown approximately as briefed. A double-drift was executed about four minutes after crossing the Belgian coast in order to lose time and allow the rest of the Division to catch up. Remainder of course to the I.P. was flown as briefed.

The Group attacked the primary target visually, with squadrons in trail, each performing its own sighting operation. Visibility was unlimited, with low stratus cumulus clouds (1/10th) around target area. Target area also had patches of ground fog. The MPI was identified by all squadrons about eight minutes before the BRL. C-1 Pilot functioned normally for both high and low squadrons, but some difficulty was encountered with lead squadron C-1 Pilot. The 500 lb BDX bombs were released at 1102½ hours.

Strike photos indicate the bomb results to be only fair.

Route from the target was flown approximately as briefed. At Control Point #3, the Group began to deviate to the right of course because of a wind change and because of a group that was "S'ing" on the briefed route and to the left of the 457th. The Group entered the English coast at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down, and landed without incident.

Mission #169

COLOGNE/HERSULHEIM

3 January 1945

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 18,000 feet as briefed. No difficulties were encountered.

Combat Wing assembly was not accomplished as briefed. The 94th "A" Combat Wing Leader was early and the Group was approximately three minutes late. The Group cut off Colchester and flew directly to Control Point #1 in order to make up time.

The Group arrived at North Foreland on time and approximately on course. The remainder of the Wing was three minutes early and a considerable distance ahead of the 457th. The Group was in proper order in Division formation, but the interval between the 457th and the preceding group was so large that it was impossible for the Group leader to identify them. Along the Division Assembly line, a combat wing was slightly off to the right of course and the Group leader, believing it to be the 9th Wing, began to go right of course in order to assemble his Group in proper position.

Over the continent, the 457th continued to fly south of course, still attempting to join the combat wing to the right of them. When the Group had drawn up to it, it was evident that it was a wing from another Division, and the Group leader turned back toward the briefed course. Upon coming back on course, the Group came in between the 41st "A" and "B" groups and flew the remainder of the course approximately on the briefed track.

The I.P. was crossed on course. Bombing was done in Group formation, by means of GH equipment, because of 10/10ths undercast. C-1 Pilot functioned satisfactorily, and the 500 lb GP's were dropped at 1058 from 25,000 feet.

Results of bombing were unobserved due to 10/10 cloud coverage.

After bombing, the Group turned to the right and assembled behind Polebrook. The return route was flown to the right of course. All deviations in course were caused by the necessity of remaining in proper position in Division formation. The Group entered England at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down on the Glatton Buncher and landed without difficulty.

Mission #170

KEMPENICH

6 January 1945

Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 15,000 feet as briefed. No difficulty was encountered at assembly.

The route over England was flown on time, on course, and at proper altitude. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without incident.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, on course, but the Group was not in proper position. The 41st Combat Wing was four minutes late arriving at Control Point #1 and consequently was behind the formation. Division Assembly Line was flown on the briefed course, on time and at proper altitude.

As the Group neared the Belgian coast, the 41st Combat Wing drew up alongside of the formation, making it necessary for the Group to deviate to the right of course. After a short period, the Group came back on course but it was still not able to swing in behind the 41st Wing, so they cut across the briefed route to the left of course in order to gain sufficient interval. The Group arrived at the I.P. on course but eight minutes late because of the deviation to left and right of course on the route over the continent.

Bombing was done in Group formation, by means of GH equipment. The low squadron released its bombs one minute earlier than the lead, because it mistook the smoke markers of another formation for those of the 457th Group formation. Cloud coverage at the target was 10/10ths and the general target area was not able to be identified. C-1 Auto Pilot functioned normally, the 500 lb

[REDACTED]

RDX bombs were released at 1121 from 23,500 feet.

Bomb results were unobserved due to 10/10 cloud coverage.

After bombing, the Group rejoined the Division and proceeded on the return route. Deviations to the right of course were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. The route from the Belgian coast was flown as briefed. A normal let-down was made and the Group landed without difficulty.

Mission #171

BITBURG

7 January 1945

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 16,000 feet as briefed.

The Group out off point "B" and varied slightly in course in order to get position in Wing formation. Followed in Wing formation and flew left of course to Control Point #1.

The Group arrived at Control Point #1 two minutes late because of time delay in getting in Wing formation. Division Assembly Line was approximately as briefed, with the Group in proper position.

The route to the I.P. was flown on time, on course, and approximately at briefed altitude. The I.P. was reached a little right of course because the GH navigator brought the formation south of course in order to start the bomb run.

The route from the I.P. to the target was flown by means of GH navigation, and course varied from the briefed route. The Group bombed the primary target by means of GH equipment because of 10/10ths cloud coverage. C-1 Pilot functioned normally and no difficulties were encountered. The RDX 500 pounders were dropped at 1133 from 24,900 feet.

Bomb results were unobserved due to clouds.

After bombing, the Group executed a 180 degree turn instead of following the briefed course, because the weather scouting force had recommended it. Rally with the 9th Wing was accomplished without incident. The formation varied slightly to the right of the briefed, which was caused by the necessity of remaining in formation. The Group entered the English coast at Felixstowe and shortly thereafter executed a 360 degree turn in order to let down through an opening in the clouds.

Mission #172

BUSKIRCHEN

10 January 1945

Group assembled at 16,000 feet on the Glatton Buncher as briefed. After assembly it became necessary to climb above briefed altitude to avoid weather conditions.

After leaving the Buncher the Group continued the climb. The assembly course was not able to be flown because of weather. Combat Wing assembly was not accomplished at briefed point because the Group, to avoid contrails and clouds, had proceeded directly to Point Z.

[REDACTED]

Point Z was not reached on course. The Group was right of course because some elements of the 94th CBW were just off to the left, having been forced there by weather conditions. The Group was above briefed altitude and five minutes early as a result of proceeding directly to Point Z. Division assembly line was not flown as briefed because of contrails, haze, and clouds. Visibility was extremely poor and it was difficult to identify or determine whether or not the Group was in proper position. However, it is believed that the Group was behind the 94th "A" Group instead of 94th "B" Group as briefed. Two squadrons of the Combat Wing were behind the 457th.

Over Belgium the Group ran into haze and dense persistent contrails. The low squadron became separated from the formation and later joined with the 351st Group, which in the meantime had succeeded in assuming its proper position behind the 401st Group. The 457th Group, deviating to both right and left of the briefed course to avoid existing weather conditions, continued toward the I.P. The I.P. was reached seven minutes early because of the time initially gained in the route over England.

Bombing was done by means of GH equipment because of 10/10ths cloud coverage. Bombing by the lead and high squadrons was done in Group formation. The low squadron bombed with Polebrook just ahead of the 457th Group. The Group was about 3,000 feet above briefed altitude because of contrails and clouds. A short time before the BRL the target area opened up momentarily, but the Mickey Operator made a large correction, making it virtually impossible for the bombardier to take over on the run. Bombs in the left rack of the lead A/C "hung up" and had to be toggled instead of salvoed. No other difficulties were encountered. C-1 Pilot functioned normally, and the 100 lb GP's were dropped at 1306 1/2 hours from 28,000 feet.

Results of bombing were unobserved.

The low squadron continued on the return route with Polebrook. The other two squadrons, lead and high, were in trail of the 94th "B" Group. Weather conditions again made it impossible to follow the briefed route. At 1322 hours the formation began to let down and ran into haze, clouds, and dense persistent contrails. The lead and high squadrons became separated, and squadrons proceeded to England individually, following a course which was best adjusted to flying conditions. Over England weather conditions had improved and the high squadron again joined the lead squadron. The squadrons made a normal let-down and landed without further incident.

Mission #173

MAXIMILIANSAU

13 January 1945

Assembly was made on Glatton Buncher at 10,000 feet as briefed.

The first point, Wisbeck, was cut off in order to make the times good. Course was flown as briefed except that the Group had to go above briefed altitude in vicinity of Clacton in order to get above some clouds. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without difficulty.

Clacton was reached on time, on course, and in proper position, but 1500 feet above briefed altitude in order to avoid clouds. Division assembly line was flown a little right of course in order to remain in Division formation.

Flight to the target was flown approximately as briefed. It was necessary for the Group to do numerous double drifts and "S" turns in order to remain behind the preceding Group. The I.P. was reached fifteen minutes early because of winds.

The weather scouting force had recommended blind bombing but as the formation approached the I.P., the Bombardier was able to identify the general target area. The bomb run was begun in normal order for a visual run. As the lead squadron approached the BRL, the lead A/C had a C-1 pilot malfunction. The remainder of the run was attempted manually, but there was not sufficient time and the leader decided to execute a 360 degree turn. Both low and high squadrons released their bombs on the first run. The MPI was identified about 1/3 of the way down the run. The high squadron experienced difficulty with an erratic AFCE. The lead squadron began the second run and the lead A/C was hit by AAGP making it necessary to turn the lead over to the deputy. Bomb run was made by deputy without further incident.

Bombing results were generally good.

The high and low squadrons had been instructed to wait for the lead squadron at CP #3 in order to rally the Group and proceed to base. The low executed three 360 degree turns and the high one, but one of the squadrons were able to join in formation. The three squadrons proceeded to base individually, flying the course approximately as briefed except for difference in times, caused by the 360 degree turns and winds. A diversion message was received by all squadrons to land at Woodbridge. The bulk of the aircraft landed at Woodbridge without incident after making an instrument let-down.

Mission #174

COLOGNE

14 January 1945

Assembly was on Clacton Buncher at 6,000 feet as briefed. No difficulties were encountered.

Route over England was flown approximately as briefed until the formation reached Colchester. The Group was three minutes early at this point and it was decided to "S" in order to lose time. The Group first went left and then right coming over Point Z on course.

Point Z was reached on course, at proper altitude, in proper position in Division Formation, but three minutes late because of the necessity of coming back on course in proper position in Division Column. Division assembly line was flown as briefed except for the differences in time.

[REDACTED]

Route over the Continent was flown to the right of course in order to stay in Division formation. Control Point 2 was reached on time, on course. Remainder of the course to the I.P. was uneventful and was flown as briefed.

A visual run was made on the primary target with each squadron performing its own sighting. There was no cloud coverage and the MPI was identified without difficulty. One squadron from another Group bombing ahead of the 457th Group, apparently unable to locate its own target, bombed the 457th objective. The MPI was identified from about 15 to 20 miles away, and the 1000 lb GP's were released at 1338 from 24,920 feet.

Bombing results were reported as excellent.

After bombing, rally was accomplished without incident. The Group was about 13 minutes early because of winds. Course was flown approximately as briefed and in Division formation. Upon arriving over the field, it was discovered that the field possessed 10/10ths overcast. The squadron then proceeded twenty miles east of the field and made a normal let-down through the holes in the clouds.

Mission #175

PADERBORN

17 January 1945

Assembly on Clatton Buncher at 11,000 feet as briefed.

Route over England was flown approximately as briefed. Combat Wing Assembly was accomplished without incident.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, on course, but 3,000 feet above briefed altitude. The Group Leader, having noticed bad weather conditions, continued to climb above briefed altitude before reaching Control Point #1. Division Assembly line was flown approximately as briefed.

About half-way over the Channel, the formation encountered increasingly difficult weather conditions, which continued from this point to the I.P. Course was flown approximately as briefed except for slight deviations to the right and left of course. Just before the I.P., the GH A/C took over the lead.

The I.P. was crossed approximately on course. The GH equipment went out of commission on the bomb run and lead was turned over the PFF A/C after the formation had passed over the primary target. A 360 degree turn to the left was executed and a run was made on Paderborn, secondary target, in Group formation. The formation in the process of turning was too close to Paderborn in order for the PFF equipment to be able to pick up the city for a normal PFF run. Bombs, 1000 lb GP's, were then released on the smoke markers of preceding groups. Cloud coverage was 10/10ths and visibility was about three miles.

Bomb results were unobserved due to cloud coverage.

[REDACTED]

After bombing, the Group turned off the target to the left, following a circular course, coming back on the briefed track at 1301 hours. The Group was not in proper position in Division column but was behind "Cowboy Able." Withdrawal was flown approximately as briefed, except for slight deviations to remain in Division formation. The English coast was crossed at Cromer; a normal let-down was made and the Group landed without incident.

Mission #176

RHEINE

20 January 1945

Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 18,500 feet as briefed.

The route over England was flown as briefed. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished as briefed.

Control Point #1 was reached on time about five miles north of course and at proper altitude. Some interference was encountered from contrails. The Group was in proper position in Division formation. Division Assembly line was flown approximately as briefed.

Course to the I.P. was flown in trail of the 94th "A" Group Leader. Deviations to left and right of course were necessary in order to stay in Division column.

The I.P. was crossed south of course. Micro-H equipment was not functioning properly and it brought the formation southeast of the briefed target. The Group continued right of course, and because the formation was a considerable distance from the primary, it was decided to make a run on the secondary target. The Group came over the briefed I.P. for the secondary target. Bombing was done in Group formation, by means of instruments because of 10/10ths cloud coverage, and the 500 lb RDX bombs were released at 10:14 1/2 hours.

After bombing, the Group came back on course and was separated from the Division. GEB equipment was not functioning normally and the Group headed to the right of course, believing that they were south of the briefed route. A wind change encountered just off the coast blew the Group farther to the right of course. The Air Commander then continued to go still further north when weather conditions would not permit the Group to turn back toward the briefed target route. At 1158 hours, when weather conditions permitted, the Group headed southwest, entering the English coast at Cromer. A normal let-down was made and the Group landed without further difficulties.

Mission #177

ASCHAFFENBURG

21 January 1945

Without difficulty the Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 9,000 feet as briefed.

Route over England was flown on course but above briefed altitude because of weather conditions. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without difficulty. Between Splasher #8 and Dungeness, the Group encountered bad weather conditions and swung to the right of course. At this juncture, the formation became separated from the Division column.

Dungeness was crossed on course but eight minutes late because of the difficulties mentioned above. The Group was a considerable distance behind the preceding Group and it was necessary to deviate to the right of the Division Assembly Line in order to intercept the Division column over the continent.

Control Point #1 was cut off because the Group was still attempting to rejoin Wing and Division. Approximately thirty miles southeast of Control Point #1, the Group rejoined the Division behind the 9th "A" Group. Before reaching the I.P., it was necessary to go above briefed altitude (2,000 ft) because of clouds and weather conditions.

The I.P. was crossed on course and above briefed altitude. Both H2X and PFF were inoperative in the lead aircraft, and the lead was turned over to the deputy. Bombing was done in Group formation by means of PFF equipment because of 10/10ths cloud coverage. Dense, persistent contrails hampered the run. The mixed load of RDX and IN's were dropped at 1207 1/2 from 25,200 ft.

Bombing results were obscured due to 10/10ths cloud coverage.

Return route was flown approximately as briefed. Deviations in course were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. At the Belgian coast, the Group deviated to the right of course in order to avoid weather conditions. A normal let-down was made and the Group landed without incident.

Mission #178

STERNADE

22 January 1945

Assembly was on the Clatton Buncher at 18,000 feet as briefed.

Route over England was flown approximately as briefed. Combat Wing Assembly was accomplished without difficulty.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, on course and at proper altitude. Division Assembly Line was not flown as briefed because it was necessary to go to the right of course in order to stay in proper position in Division formation.

Course to the I.P. was flown about as briefed. The Group was about four minutes behind schedule but in proper position and at proper interval behind the 9th "B" Group.

Group started to make a GH run and the target became visible about three minutes before the HRL. Bombing was done by squadrons. There was slight cloud, and visibility was good. C-1 Pilot functioned normally. The low squadron experienced considerable difficulty on the run on the primary when the squadron was forced to hold its bombs in order to avoid releasing the bombs on the Kinsbolton formation which passed beneath it just at the BRL. The squadron then proceeded to Osnabruck, a target of opportunity.

The lead and low boxes, by reason of the circumstances mentioned above, became separated and both squadrons proceeded to base individually. The lead squadron rallied with the Wing and proceeded to base approximately as briefed. The low squadron followed the briefed route out but did not rally with any group or wing. The English coast was crossed as briefed. A normal let-down was made and the Group landed without incident.

A/C #43-38583 was hit by flak at about 1340 hours, north of Rocklinghausen, and failed to return to base.

Mission #179

COLOGNE

28 January 1945

Assembly on the Glatton Buncher at 16,000 feet. The Group left the Buncher two minutes late because they were not assembled.

Point "A" was cut off in order to gain time. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished. All succeeding points were cut off in order to arrive at Control Point #1 on time. A wind change interrupted the time schedule and made this deviation in course necessary.

Control Point #1 was reached on time but about seven miles left of course. The Group got in proper position in Division formation along the Division Assembly Line.

The route from the end of the Division Assembly Line to the I.P. was flown approximately as briefed. Slight deviations in course were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. Just before the I.P., the Group swung out wide to the right because the flux-gate compass was not functioning normally and some difficulty was experienced with the PFF equipment. However, corrections were made and the Group crossed the I.P. on course.

Cloud coverage was 10/10ths and bombing was done by means of OH equipment in Group formation. The 500 lb GP's were released at 1153 hours from 25,000 feet.

The route out was flown approximately as briefed. The Group deviated to left and right of course in order to remain in Division formation. The enemy coast was crossed on course, and recommendation was received from weather A/C to enter England approximately twenty miles south of course. The Group entered England at Felixstowe, made a normal let-down and landed without incident.

At about 1200 hours at 5110-0730, A/C #42-97164 left the formation with the No. 2 engine feathered. It was not seen again.

Mission #180

SIEGEN

29 January 1945

Assembly was on the Glatton Buncher at 8,000 feet as briefed.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The route from base to Wisbach was flown as briefed. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without difficulty. The Group followed in Wing formation, flying considerably right of briefed course.

Control Point #1 was reached on course but four minutes late because of the deviation in course during the route over England. The Group was in proper position behind the 9th "B" Wing. Division Assembly Line was flown approximately on the briefed route.

Flight to the I.P. was flown as briefed except for slight deviations in course in order to remain in proper position in Division formation. The I.P. was reached on course but fifteen minutes early because winds were not as briefed.

Bombing was done in Group formation, by means of GH equipment because of 10/10ths cloud coverage. The low and high squadrons experienced some difficulty from prop wash. While on the bomb run, the low squadron also lost 1,000 feet of altitude. The 500 lb MX bombs were released at 1133 hours.

Bomb results were unobserved due to cloud coverage.

Flight from the target to Control Point #2 was flown as briefed. Deviations from this point to the enemy coast were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. The English coast was crossed at Felixstowe, a normal let-down was made and the Group landed without further incident.

Mission #181

LUDWIGSHAFEN

1 February 1945

Assembly was on the Matton Buncher at 19,000 feet as briefed. The Group was one minute late leaving the Buncher because the Group was not assembled.

Route over England to Fakenham was flown approximately as briefed. Combat Wing Assembly was accomplished without difficulty. From Fakenham to Control Point #1, the Group was left of course, following in trail of Polebrook.

Control Point #1 was reached on course, in proper position behind Polebrook, but one minute late. Division Assembly Line was flown approximately as briefed.

Over enemy territory, it became necessary to climb to briefed altitude plus 1,000 feet, in order to get above some weather. Deviations to the left of course were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. The Group remained at 26,000 feet instead of 25,000 feet as briefed. The formation was about nine minutes early because of a wind change.

The I.P. was crossed as briefed. Cloud coverage was 10/10ths and it was necessary to bomb by instruments. Bombing was done by squadrons in trail. Lead squadron performed a Micro-H sighting. The PWF Operator of the low squadron was unable to pick up the rate signal and it was necessary to bomb on the lead aircraft's smoke markers. The high squadron performed its own sighting operation. The mixed load of RDX and M's were released at 1232 from 25,000 feet.

Bomb results were unobserved due to 10/10 hrs cloud coverage.

After bombing, the Group rallied with the Division and followed the approximate briefed course home. Slight deviations in course were caused by the necessity of remaining in Division formation. A considerable amount of time was lost because of strong head winds. The English coast was crossed at Felixstowe, a normal let-down was made and the Group landed without further incident.

Mission #182

BERLIN

3 February 1945

Group assembled on the Glatton Buncher at 8,000 feet as briefed. Some difficulty was encountered because of darkness.

Route over England was flown as briefed. Combat Wing assembly was accomplished without difficulty.

Control Point #1 was reached on time, on course, and at proper altitude. Division Assembly line was flown as briefed, with the Group in proper position in Division formation.

The route to the I.P. was flown north of course in order to stay in Division formation. Prior to the last turn before the I.P., the Groups in Division formation were "bunched up" and it was necessary for the 94th "A" Group to deviate to the left of course in order to gain more interval and avoid bunching at the I.P. The Group was nine minutes late at the I.P. because winds were not as briefed.

The turn was made at the approximate I.P. The target area was clear, and bombing was done visually, with squadrons in trail. The MPI was identified about twenty miles from the target. The 500 lb RDX bombs were dropped at 1111g from 25,000 feet.

Bomb results were observed to be very good, with some direct hits reported.

After bombing, rally was accomplished without incident. The Group re-joined the Division and flew in trail of the 40th Combat Wing. Deviations to the right and left of course were caused by the necessity of remaining in formation. Considerable time was gained because winds were not as briefed. The English coast was crossed at Ormer, a normal let-down was made, and the Group landed without incident.

Mission #183

SCHWALDEN

6 February 1945

Assembly was at briefed altitude minus 2,000 feet because of clouds at assembly altitude and above.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

The formation left the Slatten Buncher one minute early. After Point "C" it was necessary for the Group to execute a 360 degree turn, in order to get in Wing formation behind the 9th "A" and "B" Groups which were behind and to the left of the 457th Group. The Group assembled in Wing formation without difficulty after the 360 degree turn and flew in Wing formation to Control Point #1. Eye was out off in order to gain time. The Wing was below briefed altitude and climbed only when weather and cloud conditions would permit.

Control Point #1 was reached on course but six minutes late because of the conditions mentioned above. Division Assembly Line was flown to the left of the briefed course because the "Swordfish" Wing was flying a parallel course off to the right. The Group was still below briefed altitude because of clouds.

At the enemy coast, the groups were still bunched, but succeeded in gaining interval and proper position over the continent. As the formation approached the I.P., the weather scouting force announced that the primary target was covered by 10/10ths cloud. Division Leader then stated that he was turning off course to the left in search of a target of opportunity. The 457th followed in formation.

A visual run was attempted on Weiningen airfield, but it was covered by cloud and the run was turned over to the PFF Operator. Off to the right of the formation, the town of Schmalkalden was sighted and it was decided to attack this target, with a visual assist. Cloud coverage was 4/10ths to 5/10ths. Bombing was done in Group formation, with the lead squadron performing the sighting operation and the high and low squadrons releasing their 500 lb GP's on its smoke markers.

Bomb results were observed to be only fair.

After bombing, the Group rejoined the Division without much difficulty because they had not deviated too far off the briefed track. Return route was flown approximately on the briefed course. An instrument let-down was begun by squadrons over the Channel. The English coast was crossed at Cromer and the Group proceeded to base and landed safely.

RECREATION AND WELFARE

1. Special Services.

The USO Show "It's Fun to be Fooled" pleased the 900 men who witnessed its two performances on 21 February.

The weekly dances at the Aero Club were held on February 2, 9, 16 and 23. In addition Boogie woogie ruled for a night at the Officers Club on 10 February and at the HCO stronghold on 20 February.

The month witnessed a peak in athletics. The highlight was the performance of the Officers team which, after winning first place in the Northern League of First Air Division, captured the championship of the entire First Air Division in a dramatic tournament. The OI's team won its last four games, to finish in fourth place with a 500 percentage average. Interest is high in the camp league where only one game separates first and fifth place teams. An elimination tournament is in prospect with plans being made to challenge later the best teams in the vicinity. Basketball and weight lifting have been the chief activities in the Aero Club gym which has seen considerable use this month.

USAFI enrollments continue to increase with mathematics and business subjects being most popular. There has been a marked increase attendance in the voluntary discussions, a total of 7,178 man hours for the month. Several guest speakers have been invited, a total of 375 man hours in attendance. Two men have taken advantage of the short Leave Purlough Courses and attended one of the leading Universities in the United Kingdom. The work along the Liaison line was continued by Cpl Hall who spoke before two groups numbering 75.

An appropriate feature of the Aero Club program was a Valentine Party and dance on the afternoon of the 11th. The talks by S-2 Officers on the current war situation and the Group bombing of the week continued their popularity. A hundred or more men have been availing themselves of the opportunities offered by the new hobby shop. The shop is filling a great need, being equipped with hand and power tools, artists materials, photo supplies and dark room. As before, the library offered a pleasant refuge for those wishing to read, write and play quiet games.

5. NOTICE: ATTN ALL PERSONNEL - Following is an extract of letter from Hq 1st Air Division, dated 30 Jan 45:

"The response to the call for blood for battle casualties on the Far Shore during the months of November and December was remarkable at most stations. The total pints given by personnel of the 1st Air Division was 10,683. This represents a great deal of effort on the part of many Unit Commanders and a strong sense of humanity among those who gave their blood. This came at a time when it was badly needed by the defenders of the Ardennes salient, and it gives me a great deal of satisfaction that this Air Division was able to help our brothers on the ground with blood as well as bombs and fighter support. I want to express my deepest appreciation to every man and woman who made a contribution to this effort.

"When the call for blood donors was originally made, it was estimated that 600 from bomber stations and 400 from fighter stations would be a good response. Many stations far exceeded that estimate. The five stations on which over 35% of all non-combat personnel gave their blood are to be especially commended. With the continued activity on the Western Front we may well expect to be called upon again in weeks to come. If so, I am confident that we can repeat this splendid response, and that an increased effort on the part of the stations at the bottom of the scale will make the total response even better." s/t/ HOWARD M. TURNER, Brigadier General, USA, Commanding.

6. NOTICE: ATTN ALL PERSONNEL - The following communication from Army Air Forces Aid Society, Washington, D.C., is quoted for information and guidance:

"1. The Certificate of Incorporation of the Army Air Forces Aid Society provides that:

'The particular business and objects of the corporation shall be: To collect and hold funds and to relieve distress of personnel of the Army Air Forces and their dependents, including dependents of honorably retired or discharged and deceased personnel thereof, to provide for their education, and to secure employment for honorably retired or discharged personnel and their dependents and the dependents of deceased personnel.'

The actual disbursement of funds for these purposes will be regulated in accordance with policies and procedures from time to time prescribed by the Board of Trustees.

"2. Our Board of Trustees has never gone beyond the Certificate of Incorporation in stating who will be eligible for assistance from the Army Air Forces Aid Society after the war. However, it is believed from the wording of the Certificate that assistance will be rendered after the war to those assigned to the Army Air Forces and their dependents; the dependents of those honorably retired or discharged from the Army Air Forces; and the dependents of those who died while serving with the Army Air Forces. It would appear that ASWAAF personnel, who later returned to another arm or service, or their dependents would not be eligible for benefits from the Army Air Forces Aid Society because of duty performed with the Army Air Forces.

"3. The Army Air Forces Aid Society is not a mutual insurance organization. Its benefits will be made available to all those who are eligible regardless of membership in the Society. As memberships in the Aid Society are on a voluntary basis, it is assumed that those who make application do so because they recognize the importance of the Society's post war welfare program."
